

RBC International Equity Currency Neutral Fund

Investment Objective

To provide long-term capital growth. The fund invests primarily in units of other mutual funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate of RBC GAM (called the underlying funds), emphasizing mutual funds that invest in equity securities of companies outside of North America while minimizing the exposure to currency fluctuations between foreign currencies and the Canadian dollar. The fund aims to provide exposure to economies that offer different business cycles and growth opportunities than North American markets.

Quarterly Commentary as at September 30, 2017

European equities continued the strong performance seen earlier this year. For much of the quarter, monetary-policy expectations pushed up the euro. However, the currency lost momentum after the European Central Bank (ECB) announced that it would leave interest rates unchanged and maintain quantitative easing. German Chancellor Merkel's failure to win a majority in a general election also weakened the euro.

Asian markets posted gains following strong first-half performance. Investor sentiment improved on the back of rising regional earnings expectations and stabilizing economic indicators in China. The strongest-performing markets in Asia were China, Hong Kong and Thailand, and the Indian market also fared well. The Japanese economy continued to strengthen in recent months and the Prime Minister called a surprise election as his approval ratings improved.

From an asset allocation perspective, the Health Care sector was the biggest detractor from relative returns while Information Technology contributed.

At the stock selection level, holdings in the Industrials and Consumer Discretionary sectors detracted the most from relative performance, while strong stock selection in Health Care and Information Technology contributed. The largest contributor was a holding in Chinese internet giant Tencent. Chilean copper miner Antofagasta was the second largest. The biggest detractor was a position in Mitsubishi UFJ.

While the encouraging macroeconomic data and latest set of solid corporate results suggest a strong recovery in Europe, Brexit negotiations between the European Union and the U.K. and political developments in southern Europe in the months ahead could lead to market volatility. Markets seems to have shrugged off the negative news around North Korea's military provocations but there are some warning signs for Asian markets as we have seen some softening of macro indicators in the region.
