Quarterly Commentary as at December 31, 2017

European equities rallied in the last quarter of 2017 to cap off a strong year. The climb in the Euro we witnessed in the middle of the year stabilised over the final quarter and this coincided with renewed strength in the underlying equity market.

Stocks were hampered in the U.K. for most of the year by the ruling party's failure to win a majority in June elections and the resulting concern that the government would have a weaker negotiating position regarding talks to remove Britain from the European Union. However, in the final month of the year, the U.K. rallied strongly relative to the rest of the world as Brexit talks advanced to the next stage.

The economic environment remained robust in Germany, and improved in France and "peripheral" countries such as Spain, Italy and Portugal. Leading indicators, credit conditions and unemployment all moved in the right direction.

The best-performing stocks in the portfolio were PaddyPowerBetfair, the Irish bookmaker and Cranswick, the U.K. pork and poultry business. On the negative side, the two Scandinavian industrials Alimak and Assa Abloy underperformed and were the biggest drag on performance.

Investors have turned more optimistic about corporate earnings due to signs of economic recovery and the alleviation of political risks across the region. The focus on the Fund remains in highly profitable, cash generating businesses at attractive valuations. We have seen a creep up in valuations across the region over the course of the year and would expect the Fund to gently add to more stocks with cheaper valuations over the near-term.

The Fund's focus remains on the discipline of long-term investing in companies with strong competitive positions, low capital intensity, sustainable and/or improving profitability and the right management strategy and governance structures.
