

RBC Emerging Markets Bond Fund (CAD Hedged)

Investment Objective

To provide total returns comprised of interest income and capital growth while minimizing the exposure to currency fluctuations between foreign currencies and the Canadian dollar. The fund invests primarily in government debt securities of emerging market countries and may also invest in emerging market corporate bonds and government debt securities of developed countries. The fund may do so either directly or indirectly through investment in other mutual funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate. The fund will also use derivatives to hedge against the fluctuations in the value of foreign currencies relative to the Canadian dollar.

Quarterly Commentary as at March 31, 2018

Emerging-market (EM) bonds got off to a rough start in 2018 as rising treasury yields and wider spreads conspired to push returns into negative territory. However, losses on bonds were more than offset by strength in the U.S. dollar relative to the Canadian dollar.

A pickup in global growth, a transparent U.S. Federal Reserve and low inflation was meant to be a good recipe for continued positive momentum in EM bonds. However, a rise in volatility from very low levels, higher treasury yields, record EM sovereign issuance and tight spread levels all worked against the asset class during the quarter. We also saw heavy new issuance from African countries such as Senegal, Kenya, Nigeria and Egypt – countries looking to take advantage of relatively favourable financing conditions.

The Fund benefited from a lower-than-benchmark allocation to longer-maturity bonds, which were among the weakest performers during the quarter. Security selection in Latin America and Africa also contributed positively to performance.

The outlook for EM growth continues to be constructive. The uptrend in commodity prices remains intact. Political risks could be more prevalent in the coming year with elections scheduled in Brazil, Mexico, Malaysia and Venezuela. Given election risks, we have reduced the Fund's allocation to some riskier credits in Latin America such as Brazil, Argentina, Ecuador and Mexico and increased the quality of the portfolio partially through higher allocations to South Africa, Qatar and U.S. Treasuries.

Despite widening since the start of the year, risk premiums for EM bonds remain close to three-year lows and risks related to rising protectionism and populism appear to be rising. However, with over 15% of all outstanding government bonds trading at negative yields, demand for EM bonds is likely to remain robust.
