

RBC Emerging Markets Bond Fund (CAD Hedged)

Investment Objective

To provide total returns comprised of interest income and capital growth while minimizing the exposure to currency fluctuations between foreign currencies and the Canadian dollar. The fund invests primarily in government debt securities of emerging market countries and may also invest in emerging market corporate bonds and government debt securities of developed countries. The fund may do so either directly or indirectly through investment in other mutual funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate. The fund will also use derivatives to hedge against the fluctuations in the value of foreign currencies relative to the Canadian dollar.

Quarterly Commentary as at December 31, 2018

Risk assets faced a challenging quarter as numerous headwinds, such as slowing economic growth, uncertain geopolitics, trade disputes, declining oil prices, and less-accommodative central banks contributed to widespread risk-off market sentiment. In this environment, emerging-market (EM) spreads widened and bond prices registered losses, pushing returns further into negative territory for the full year.

During the quarter, the overweight in duration in the investment grade (IG) portion benefitted the Fund as U.S. treasury yields fell, reflecting flight-to-quality behaviour. Additionally, the Fund's underweights in Oman, Argentina, Ghana and Sri Lanka benefitted the Fund as these high-yield countries sold off.

The Portfolio Manager has been proactively adding to existing positions in some of the off-index countries of the Middle East with relatively strong fundamentals such as the United Arab Emirates, Qatar and Saudi Arabia. These countries, along with Kuwait and Bahrain, will be gradually phased into the index during 2019. The addition to these countries was sourced mainly from Latin America, specifically Mexico, which is now slightly underweight because of worrying signs that the new administration is tilting towards more populist policies.

The biggest risks for EM are increasing trade tensions between the U.S. and China, which notably would be negative for most of the world, not solely EM and materially slower growth in China.

Recent economic data from EM countries points to growth moderation with cyclical momentum still slowing and while Chinese policy makers are attempting to stimulate the economy, it appears to be stabilizing rather than accelerating it.

Overall, we believe that the structural, long-term story of EM remains sound: the fundamental picture of sovereign balance sheets remains mostly positive and the sell-off witnessed this year in EM debt is creating value and opportunities.
