Quarterly Commentary as at March 31, 2018

Worldwide trade suffered a setback in the first quarter of 2018 as U.S. President Trump threatened to impose trade tariffs on China and, to a lesser degree, allies in Europe and North America. However, economic growth remained robust in most areas of the world.

Emerging markets continued to outperform developed markets in the quarter. A strong January performance, supported by gains in the Information Technology sector, was reversed in February when a global equity sell-off occurred amid geopolitical risks and the possibility of a trade war.

At the country level, Brazil and Peru were the best-performing markets, both buoyed by a positive political environment. The Philippines, Poland and India were the worst-performing markets. At the sector level, Energy and Health Care were the best-performing sectors while Consumer Discretionary and Telecommunication Services were the worst.

All three of the Fund's investments had a positive impact on returns. RBC Emerging Markets Dividend Fund performed best while RBC Emerging Markets Equity Fund and RBC Emerging Markets Small-Cap Equity Fund also contributed to performance.
