Quarterly Commentary as at March 31, 2018

Uncertainty returned to financial markets in early 2018 following a long period of strong returns and minimal volatility that lasted for most of the fiscal year. The valuation of the S&P/TSX Composite Index is currently around two multiple points lower than the S&P 500 Index, a gap that seems justified, given the fact that the Financials and Energy sectors account for over half of the Canadian market's earnings.

The main driver for bond markets rested with the U.S. as the U.S. Federal Reserve continued to tighten monetary policy. U.S. Treasuries led the global bond sell-off in the first half of the quarter, only to pare back losses as the fear of trade wars and rising equity market volatility sent investors seeking safety in government bonds.

In the equity portion of the Fund, security selection in Canada's largest sectors, Energy and Financials, added to performance. In Energy, Enbridge Inc. has been a core holding, but there has been pressure on the stock as a result of concerns about its balance sheet, pipeline construction challenges and the potential for rising interest rates.

In fixed income, gains from foreign-currency trading were the main contributor to performance, offsetting losses from higher exposure to provincial, corporate and higher-yielding corporate and emerging-market (EM) debt. U.S. government bonds underperformed Canadian government bonds this quarter; therefore, the Fund's positions in higher-yielding corporate and EM debt that priced off U.S. Treasuries further detracted.

Looking ahead, the portfolio managers expect economic growth to continue to support corporate earnings. As a result, they expect corporate bonds to outperform government bonds, but acknowledge the increasing risks associated with these positions.

While key risks of an aging business cycle, rising interest rates and protectionism persist, upside potential remains. On balance, the portfolio managers expect the positives to outweigh the negatives, further driving stock market potential.
