Quarterly Commentary as at June 30, 2018

U.S. equity markets rebounded in the second quarter. However, sustained economic growth and accelerated earnings were accompanied by higher interest rates and faster inflation, which weighed on valuations. Against this backdrop, equities require ongoing earnings growth to make the kind of headway that came so easily last year.

Security selection mildly detracted in Q2. Our overweight in the department store retailing chain, Kohl's Corp., contributed positively as the stock rose on strong earnings results. Conversely, our overweights in tobacco companies, Altria Group Inc. and Philip Morris International Inc., hurt performance. Philip Morris fell 15% earlier this year on weak earnings, largely driven by lower adoption of its smokeless product than expected in Japan. Altria serves an entirely different market, but was also dragged down by Philip Morris's poor results. Overweights in Morgan Stanley, PNC Financial Services Group Inc. and Bank of America Corp. also detracted this quarter.

Expanding valuations have been a significant source of gains for stocks during the decade-long rally, but sustained earnings growth will be critical to drive equities to higher levels. Earnings have indeed been growing rapidly, helped by U.S. tax cuts, and expectations are for the positive trend in profits to persist. The key point is that, as long as economic growth continues and the U.S. Federal Reserve raises rates gradually, stocks are positioned to offer decent returns for the balance of 2018.
