Quarterly Commentary as at September 30, 2017

The global acceleration in economic growth that began last year has been largely sustained. The need for extreme monetary stimulus is fading and central banks including the U.S. Federal Reserve and the Bank of Canada (BoC) are gradually shifting toward tighter policy.

The Fund's overweight position in equities and underweight position in fixed income had a positive impact on performance. Returns on global government bonds were low to slightly negative during the period. Canadian bonds underperformed after the BoC boosted short-term interest rates given faster-than-expected economic growth. Returns were held back by exposure to the RBC Bond Fund and the Phillips, Hager & North Total Return Bond Fund. The Fund's performance benefited from an investment in the RBC Global Corporate Bond Fund.

Global equities posted gains, led by emerging-market and Canadian equities, as prices for oil and other commodities strengthened. The S&P 500 finished the period at a record high, but a weaker U.S. dollar offset most of the returns when translated back into Canadian dollars. The Fund benefited from allocations to the RBC European Equity Fund, the RBC Canadian Dividend Fund and the RBC Private Canadian Equity Pool.

Our models continue to suggest the long-term direction for bond yields is higher, which would weigh on total returns for bond holders. Prospective returns for equities are much better than for fixed income, but the valuation tailwind from falling interest rates may be exhausted so earnings growth is now critical for the continuity of the bull market. The Fund has been dialing back the risk exposure in the asset mix as the business cycle matures, trimming the equity-overweight allocation and splitting the proceeds between cash and fixed income.

Quartile rankings are determined by Morningstar Research Inc., an independent research firm, based on categories maintained by the Canadian Investment Funds Standards Committee (CIFSC). Quartile rankings are comparisons of the performance of a fund to other funds in a particular category and are subject to change monthly. The quartiles divide the data into four equal segments expressed in terms of rank (1, 2, 3 or 4). This is the Morningstar quartile ranking of Series A and F units of the Fund as of October 31, 2017.
