Quarterly Commentary as at December 31, 2017

Emerging markets (EM) continued to outperform developed markets in the Q4, although there was a brief period of underperformance in November as the EM Information Technology sector failed to maintain its strong year-to-date performance. Commodities had notable gains over the period, with crude oil and metals rising significantly.

At the country level, South Africa, Greece and India were the best performing countries, while Malta, Mexico and Pakistan were the worst. At the sector level Health Care and Consumer Discretionary were the best performing sectors, while Utilities and Telecommunication Services underperformed.

Stock selection and asset allocation detracted from returns, in particular our underweight in Health Care, as we saw more defensive sectors outperform in the final quarter of 2017. At the country level, stock selection, combined with our underweight in South Korea, was the key detractor. We increased exposure to domestic stocks in South Africa as the political backdrop has improved following the election of pro-reform Cyril Ramaphosa as the President of the African National Congress.

Chroma, the Taiwanese manufacturer of electric vehicle testing instruments, was best performer as its Q3 2017 earnings beat expectations in October which led to strong earnings revisions. Loen Entertainment, which owns the digital music platform MelOn in South Korea, has risen sharply since October for a number of reasons including government plans to offer more music revenue to copyright holders (such as Loen) and reports that Loen's MelOn in-app player will be embedded in Kakao messenger from December 2017. Cyient and Koh Young Technology were also positive for returns.

Delta Electronics Thailand was the biggest detractor from returns. The company's share price declined after disappointing Q3 2017 results. Aramex, the Middle Eastern courier company, underperformed over the period as its 3Q17 results missed consensus expectations due to unfavourable currency movements in Egypt and India, and not owning Sillajen, the South Korean biotech company, also detracted from relative returns. Other notable detractors were holdings in Duratex and Vesta.
