Quarterly Commentary as at June 30, 2017

While the Bank of Canada (BoC) held its overnight target rate at 0.5% this quarter, senior officials of the BoC strongly indicated that a rate hike may finally be nearing. While still being somewhat guarded about his exact intentions, Governor Stephen Poloz described the BoC's previous rate cuts as having "done their job" and remarked on recent strength in the Canadian economy. This led to the market pricing in better-than-even odds of a 0.25% rate hike at the BoC's July meeting, and another hike later in the year. While there have been false alarms in the past about upcoming potential rate increases, the market's confidence is at its highest since the last actual hike took place in 2010.

The Fund continued to preserve capital and maximize yield by focusing on high-quality securities that pay a higher interest rate than Government of Canada T-bills. This is accomplished by investing primarily in corporate notes, asset-backed commercial paper, bankers' acceptances, floating rate notes, and commercial paper of high-quality corporate borrowers. The Fund kept its average term near its maximum of 60 days, which allows it to benefit from wider credit spreads that exist further out on the yield curve. As always, safety of principal and return of capital is not compromised in pursuit of returns, and remains the primary objective of the Fund.
