Quarterly Commentary as at June 30, 2017

The Fund's performance during the quarter was driven by holdings such as Air Canada, Canadian National Railway (CNR), and Cott Corp.

Air Canada exhibited strong earnings in what is seasonally its weakest quarter. Management indicated that it sees an improving demand and better yields. In order to strengthen customer relationships and drive better financial performance, Air Canada plans to launch its own loyalty program when its current agreement with Aimia for the Aeroplan program ends in mid-2020. Management values the benefit of this shift at over $2 billion. We continue to believe the company is undervalued.

Canadian National Railway continues to exhibit above-average growth. Volumes have been strong on the back of its market share growth in various segments, an indication that the company's customer-centric approach is working. Management has communicated a highly visible path to solid revenue growth and productivity improvement by leveraging its technology investments. Lastly, the balance sheet remains solid, leaving room for possible dividend increases and share buybacks.

Sequential improvement remains key for Cott. Revenue for DSS and Cott's traditional business is expected to accelerate in the back half of the year as a result of various initiatives. Furthermore, the integration of Eden Springs and S&D has been exceeding internal expectations. The valuation of the company remains attractive relative to its peers and we expect this valuation gap to close. In addition, larger-scale accretive M&A could provide further potential upside.

During the quarter, we added Element Fleet Management, Jamieson Wellness, Parkland Fuel, SNC-Lavalin, and Trican Well Service. We also raised our weightings in a number of names, including Alimentation Couche-Tard, Cardinal Energy, and Enercare. We reduced weightings in various holdings, including Canadian Tire, Magna International, and Shopify. We eliminated Canyon Services (acquired by Trican Well Service), DHX Media, Milestone Apartments REIT (acquired by Starwood Capital Group), Mood Media, and Redknee Solutions from the Fund.
