Quarterly Commentary as at December 31, 2017

During Q4, an overweight exposure to high momentum stocks, the primary stock selection factor, detracted -1.16% from returns. When seeking high momentum stocks, we eliminate from consideration extremely expensive names based on valuation relative to sales, earnings, and cash flows. This was a benefit and partially offset the negative returns of momentum. For the first three quarters expensive momentum names, like Biotechnology, outperformed by large margins. But in Q4, we saw a small reversal in that trend and our focus on attractive valuations contributed positively. The Fund screens out the most poorly ranked names through Earnings Quality, Financial Strength, and Earnings Growth. The performance of these quality themes was mixed for Q4, and overall detracted. Industry allocations and our position in smaller names than the benchmark had a negative impact.

Overall sector allocation effects contributed to returns while overall security selection effects detracted from returns for Q4. Security selection within Materials, Energy, and Real Estate aided returns while security selection within Industrials, Information Technology, and Consumer Discretionary detracted from returns. An underweight allocation to Health Care and overweight allocations to Financials and Consumer

Discretionary contributed to performance while a slight overweight to Information Technology detracted from returns.

It is the policy of the Fund to maintain currency hedges at all times in order to neutralize exchange-rate movements between the U.S. dollar and the Canadian dollar. This policy had a slightly negative effect on returns during Q4.

Above all else, we believe long term success comes from building a Fund around proven stock selection factors—measured using key selection criteria like quality, valuation, and momentum. Based on these key themes, the Fund is very well positioned versus its benchmark and relative to the overall market. The Fund's companies have higher momentum, lower debt ratios, and trade at deep discounts across a number of valuation factors. They are also less dilutive to shareholders than the average company in the index.

These combined advantages can only be delivered by a Fund which is distinct from the benchmark. Our active share of 86.6% means that the Fund continues to represent a unique take on its opportunity set versus the benchmark.
