

PH&N Currency-Hedged Overseas Equity Fund

Investment Objective

The fundamental investment objective of the Fund is to achieve long-term capital growth primarily through exposure to a diversified portfolio of common stocks in companies in the world's largest industrialized countries outside North America, including countries in Europe and the Far East, including Japan and Australia, while minimizing currency risk. To achieve these objectives, the Fund will invest primarily in units of other funds managed by Phillips, Hager & North. The fundamental investment objective may only be changed with the approval of a majority of unitholders at a meeting called for that purpose. However, we may change the Fund's investment strategies at our discretion.

Quarterly Commentary as at March 31, 2018

The first quarter of 2018 started strongly, but was fragmented in February as markets sold off in concert, driven by volatility trade unwinds and valuation concerns. March was also negative with concerns around the re-emergence of protectionism, especially between the United States and China. Valuations in the burgeoning Technology sector were also reappraised in light of some firms' cavalier attitudes toward customer data.

Astellas Pharma Inc. was the largest contributor to relative returns during the quarter as investors were encouraged by slightly better-than-expected results. More importantly, two of the company's key drugs did comparatively well in testing and management also announced a buyback of 2% of the firm's equity. Japanese manufacturer of precision motors, Nidec Corp., also performed well with strong results alongside an intention to bring capital expenditures forward to satisfy increasing demand in automobile electrification, robots, energy-saving home appliances and drone motors. Taiwan-domiciled semiconductor manufacturer, TSMC Ltd., also rose after a strong set of quarterly results drove performance.

German logistics operator, Deutsche Post AG, was the largest detractor from returns as the stock weakened in the quarter after its recent strong run. Paddy Power Betfair plc also experienced weaker performance after changes to senior management and a poor response from some investors to the company's increased investment plans, which may impact shorter-term revenues.

As always, the team remains committed to the discovery of companies deemed to be future success stories. We are constantly searching for compelling long-term opportunities at the right valuations while avoiding businesses that are overvalued or optically cheap, but fundamentally flawed.
