Quarterly Commentary as at March 31, 2018

The Canadian equity market performed negatively this quarter, lagging all major markets amid a global equity sell-off triggered by major spikes in U.S. market volatility in February and March. The Canadian market suffered due to concerns about rising yields, uncertainty surrounding NAFTA negotiations and increased U.S. protectionism.

This quarter, PH&N Monthly Income Fund underperformed its custom benchmark. In equities, the Financials sector was the biggest drag on performance for the period, the single-largest detractor to which was a holding in Element Fleet Management Corp. The Toronto-based company faced unexpected challenges while merging information-technology (IT) systems following two large acquisitions, which resulted in the loss of some large customers and negatively affected its stock price. Despite the setback, we remain comfortable in our position due to the recovery plan in place. The Fund's holdings in the IT sector were an area of strength over the quarter as a key position in the consulting and systems integration company, CGI Group Inc., contributed significantly to the positive side of the ledger.

In fixed income, interest rates were volatile over the quarter and the Fund's interest-rate positioning worked well to take advantage of the volatility. We increased the Fund's exposure to provincial bonds during the quarter as provincial spreads widened, making them more attractive to buy. Nonetheless, we continue to prefer government-agency bonds, specifically Canada Housing Trust No. 1 bonds, which are fully guaranteed by the federal government. We continue to have a cautious view on corporate bonds and have maintained a close-to-neutral position with a bias toward higher-quality, less-cyclical issuers.

The Fund's trading activity is a function of our investment process. Our disciplined fundamental research process and approach to portfolio construction position sizes seek to match fundamental conviction and minimize exposure to unpredictable risk factors.
