Quarterly Commentary as at December 31, 2017

The combination of lower Government of Canada bond yields and credit-spread compression resulted in strong positive absolute returns for the Fund during the fourth quarter. The Fund was positioned with a duration profile in line with that of the benchmark for much of the quarter as yields trended lower. This positioning was adjusted to be moderately shorter than the benchmark in December, benefiting the Fund modestly when yields retraced somewhat on the back of improving economic data, prompting a more optimistic tone from the BoC. However, the Fund's yield curve positioning detracted slightly resulting from an overweight to the short end of the yield curve and underweight to the long end in an environment where longer-term bonds outperformed shorter-term bonds. Overall, interest-rate anticipation strategies were neutral to relative performance.

We continue to have a cautious view on provincial and corporate bonds. We reduced the Fund's exposure to provincial bonds during the quarter and used the proceeds to add to holdings in Canada Housing Trust bonds, which are fully guaranteed by the federal government. The Fund is positioned with a small underweight exposure to corporate bonds with a bias toward higher-quality, less-cyclical issuers. We would like to see better valuations (i.e., wider yield spreads) in these sectors to take more meaningful positions. In the meantime, we are content to be patient.

We also continued to engage in out-of-benchmark strategies in the Fund, including small positions in inflation-linked bonds, U.S. Treasuries and maple bonds (non-Canadian companies that issue bonds in Canada in CAD). These strategies help diversify the Fund in sectors where we see opportunities to outperform traditional Canadian bonds.
