Quarterly Commentary as at September 30, 2018

Economic headlines over the quarter were dominated by uncertainty surrounding Canada's participation in an updated NAFTA deal, as well as increased U.S. protectionism and the potential for further tariffs. In addition, rising bond yields and their impact on household debt continued to loom over the economy. The S&P/TSX Capped Composite Index was down 0.6% during the quarter, finishing behind U.S. and global equity markets.

Within the equity portion of the Fund, the Financials sector benefitted from the prospect of rising interest rates, along with better-than-expected earnings reports. Brookfield Asset Management, a core portfolio holding, was the second-largest contributor as the company continued to experience solid growth across its entire investment platform.

The Materials sector was the largest detractor for the period. Mining and metals-based companies Agnico Eagle Mines Ltd. and First Quantum Minerals Ltd. detracted from returns. Their share prices were depressed as a result of continued weakness in gold and copper.

Within Fixed Income, bond yields pushed higher as central banks continued on their path of normalizing monetary policy. We began the quarter with duration modestly shorter than the benchmark. We further shortened portfolio duration as yields moved higher through July. As interest rates tapered off through August, we shifted our duration positioning to neutral. At the end of the quarter, we took profits and adjusted the Fund's duration slightly longer.

We continue to take a conservative view of corporate bonds and have maintained a close-to-neutral position relative to the benchmark over the quarter, with a bias towards higher-quality, less-cyclical issuers.

The Fund's trading activity is a function of our investment process. Our disciplined fundamental research process and approach to portfolio construction serve to optimize position sizes to match fundamental conviction and minimize exposure to unpredictable risk factors.
