Quarterly Commentary as at March 31, 2018

U.S. cosmetics producer Estée Lauder was the biggest contributor to relative returns in Q1. The stock has had a very strong run with demand from China, e-commerce and travel retail driving sales growth. Taiwan-domiciled semiconductor manufacturer TSMC rose after a strong set of quarterly results drove performance. U.S. provider of personal and small business accounting solutions Intuit also performed well as the stock advanced on the back of healthy customer rates and new product development.

Canadian oil services company, Enbridge, was the biggest detractor from relative returns. U.S. tax reforms will have a negative impact on part of the firm's corporate structure and as a result will reduce cash flow available to service and deleverage debt, putting the firm's equity under pressure. German logistics operator Deutsche Post also had a weak quarter after its recent strong run.

The first quarter of 2018 started strongly but fragmented in February with markets selling off in concert, driven by volatility trade unwinds and valuation concerns. March was also negative with concerns around the re-emergence of protectionism, especially between the U.S. and China. There was also a reappraisal of valuations in the burgeoning technology sector in light of some firms' cavalier attitudes towards customer data. The U.S. dollar was generally weak, despite the stimulatory potential of president Trump's tax cuts, a strong economy and rising interest rates.

As always the RBC Global Equity team remains committed to the discovery of companies that we deem to be future success stories. We are constantly searching for compelling long-term opportunities at the right valuations whilst avoiding those businesses that are overvalued or optically cheap but fundamentally flawed.
