Quarterly Commentary as at March 31, 2018

The Fund was launched on January 29, 2018. Investment performance is not provided for a fund that has been available for less than one year.

The global macroeconomic environment remains positive for corporate bonds. However, an aging business cycle, rising U.S. interest rates and trade protectionism are key risks. In our view, improving corporate fundamentals, low default rates and receptive capital markets will support valuations and U.S. fiscal stimulus should provide a tailwind to an already solid economic outlook.

The portfolio manager expects global bond yields to rise slowly with short-term yields continuing to rise faster than those on longer-term bonds. The portfolio manager also expects the U.S. Federal Reserve to continue tightening while the European Central Bank and Bank of Japan should roll back their easing, given the upbeat growth outlook, which is likely to push bond yields higher. However, trade issues may increase uncertainty, which would hold down yields in the near term.
