Quarterly Commentary as at December 31, 2017

European equities rallied in Q4 to cap off a strong year. The climb in the euro we witnessed in the middle of the year stabilised over Q4 and this coincided with renewed strength in the underlying equity market.

Stocks were hampered in the U.K. for most of the year by the ruling party's failure to win a majority in June elections and the resulting concern that the government would have a weaker negotiating position regarding talks to remove Britain from the European Union. However, in the final month of the year, the U.K. rallied strongly relative to the rest of the world as Brexit talks advanced to the next stage.

The economic environment remained robust in Germany, and improved in France and "peripheral" countries such as Spain, Italy and Portugal. Leading indicators, credit conditions and unemployment all moved in the right direction.

At a sector level, all sectors posted positive returns except Utilities and Health Care. The strongest of those were Real Estate, Energy and Materials.

The best-performing stocks in the Fund were Istock, the U.K. brick manufacturer and Relx, the Anglo/Dutch media company. On the negative side, the Scandinavian banks Swedbank and Nordea underperformed and were the biggest drag on performance.

Investors have turned more optimistic about corporate earnings due to signs of economic recovery and the alleviation of political risks across the region. The Fund's focus remains on the discipline of long-term investing in companies with strong competitive positions, low capital intensity, sustainable and/or improving profitability and the right management strategy and governance structures.
