Quarterly Commentary as at March 31, 2018

Global trade suffered a setback in the first quarter of 2018 as U.S. President Trump threatened to impose trade tariffs on China and, to a lesser degree, allies in Europe and North America. However, economic growth remained robust in most areas of the world.

Global equities posted modest losses, reversing gains earlier in the period, on concerns about rising inflation and the potential for a trade war. Canadian stocks underperformed due in part to a housing slowdown and worries that the Energy sector is falling behind on pipeline infrastructure.

Returns were bolstered by AGF American Growth Class, TD U.S. Mid-Cap Growth Equity Fund and RBC Emerging Markets Equity Fund. RBC Canadian Equity Fund negatively affected returns.

The economic backdrop is quite good by post-crisis standards and we think that, this year, the global economy will grow at its fastest pace in eight years. As a result, central banks will likely continue dialing back monetary accommodation. We expect stocks to continue providing solid returns for investors.
