Quarterly Commentary as at September 30, 2017

In the 3rd quarter of 2017, global corporate bonds recorded mostly positive gains benefitting from an improving economic environment, healthy balance sheets, low volatility and generally pro-growth monetary policies. Low interest rates also added to the demand for non-government fixed income securities such as corporate bonds. Expectations of faster economic growth in Canada led to higher interest rates and as a result Canadian investment grade bonds underperformed relative to other global fixed income securities.

The Fund underperformed its benchmark in the quarter. The Fund's performance relative to the benchmark was aided by its investments in emerging market corporate bonds and investment grade securities in Europe and Asia-Pacific. Holding back the Fund's performance was cash, our foreign currency positions and investments in U.S. high yield and emerging market sovereign debt securities.

Global interest rates remain historically low and stronger economic growth and potential shifts in the policies of global central banks could over time result in higher global rates which would hurt fixed income returns going forward.

The Fund is underweight high yield bonds and securities from Asia-Pacific while overweight Canadian and U.S. investment grade bonds. The Fund remains at a normal weight in Europe and the emerging markets. The Fund also remains exposed to the U.S. dollar and emerging market currencies. The Fund's sensitivity to changes in interest rates is similar to the market.
