

RBC Target 2020 Education Fund

Investment Objective

This fund is an asset allocation fund specifically designed to meet the changing needs of investors who are saving money for the purpose of funding a post-secondary education that commences around 2020. The fund gradually shifts its asset mix from an emphasis on equity funds, in its early years, to an emphasis on money market funds as its "target" date (2020) approaches. Over the life of the fund, its portfolio will shift from a focus on funds with growth potential to a focus on funds that will preserve capital.

Quarterly Commentary as at March 31, 2018

Global trade suffered a setback in the first quarter of 2018 as U.S. President Trump threatened to impose trade tariffs on China and, to a lesser degree, allies in Europe and North America. However, economic growth remained robust in most areas of the world.

Government-bond yields rose significantly around the globe during the first quarter, especially in the U.S. and Europe. Canada's bond market outperformed as the country's weakening economy held yields down. Returns were bolstered by exposure to RBC Global Bond Fund and RBC Canadian Short-Term Income Fund.

Global equities posted modest losses, reversing gains earlier in the period, on concerns about rising inflation and the potential for a trade war. Canadian stocks underperformed due in part to a housing slowdown and worries that the Energy sector is falling behind on pipeline infrastructure. RBC Canadian Equity Fund negatively affected returns, partially offset by the positive impact of RBC U.S. Mid-Cap Growth Equity Fund.

We expect the global economy to grow at its fastest pace since the financial crisis, allowing central banks to continue dialling back monetary accommodation. Rising yields could act as a drag on fixed-income returns, but bonds can help to offset equity-market volatility in a balanced portfolio. In our view, stocks will continue to outperform bonds in this rising-rate environment.
