Quarterly Commentary as at March 31, 2018

Uncertainty returned to financial markets in early 2018 following a long period of strong returns and minimal volatility that lasted for most of the fiscal year. The reversal started with strong U.S. wage-growth data, which led to concerns that higher inflation may force the U.S. Federal Reserve to increase interest rates at a faster pace than previously anticipated. With markets beginning to find their feet in the latter stages of February, renewed concerns over U.S. trade protectionism resulted in additional volatility.

The valuation of the S&P/TSX is currently around two multiple points lower than the S&P 500, a gap that seems justified, given the concerns outlined above and the fact that the Financials and Energy sectors account for more than half of the Canadian market's earnings.

Over the quarter, the Fund benefited from an overweight in Real Estate and strong security selection in Energy. An off-benchmark position in Statoil ASA – a Norwegian oil and gas company, 67% owned by the Norwegian state – was a large contributor. Statoil is primarily an upstream company and the second-largest supplier of natural gas to the European market. Conversely, Utilities was the main detracting sector, particularly due to our off-benchmark holding in Pattern Energy Group Inc.

The economic backdrop remains positive by post-crisis standards as many of the macroeconomic indicators monitored by the portfolio manager show reasons to remain positive. While key risks of an aging business cycle, rising interest rates and protectionism persist, upside potential remains from structural reforms in Japan and U.S. fiscal stimulus. On balance, the portfolio managers expect the positives to outweigh the negatives, further driving potential in the stock market.
