

PH&N Currency-Hedged U.S. Equity Fund

Investment Objective

The fundamental investment objective of the Fund is to provide significant long-term capital growth primarily through exposure to a well-diversified portfolio of quality U.S. common stocks, while minimizing currency risk. To achieve these objectives, the Fund will invest primarily in units of other funds managed by Phillips, Hager & North. Fundamental investment objectives may only be changed with the approval of a majority of unitholders at a meeting called for that purpose. However, we may change the Fund's investment strategies at our discretion.

Quarterly Commentary as at December 31, 2017

The U.S. stock market finished a strong year on the back of solid returns from cyclical sectors. Strong overall performance was driven by continued synchronized global economic expansion, still-accommodative global central bank policy, and low market interest rates and inflation, which drove better-than-expected financial performance for most U.S. companies. Tax reform also helped lift investor sentiment late in the year.

During the quarter, the Fund's relative performance was boosted by the Consumer Discretionary and Industrials sectors while Telecommunications was a drag. In Consumer Discretionary, traditional retailers have been under pressure as consumers shift toward purchasing items online and spending more on experiences rather than material goods. The Fund's overweight allocation to the primary disruptor in the sector, Amazon.com Inc., added to relative returns. In Industrials, relative returns were aided by strong security selection. In particular, the Fund's removal of General Electric Company benefited performance as it was the S&P 500's largest detractor during 2017.

Conversely, Telecommunications was a mild detractor. The underweight allocation to AT&T Inc. weighed on performance as the company raised its dividend and is a major beneficiary of tax reform.

While our base case is for stocks to rise modestly over the next year, there are several scenarios that could lead to declines, including an escalation of tensions with North Korea, a policy mistake by the U.S. Federal Reserve (Fed) or protectionist trade moves by the Trump administration. Our indicators suggest that the odds of a recession remain fairly low but, with valuations at an eight-year high and the Fed intent on normalizing interest rates, risks have increased and earnings growth remains key for return prospects.
