MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide long-term capital growth by investing primarily in a diversified portfolio of Canadian securities including, but not limited to, common and preferred shares of Canadian companies that pay dividends, real estate investment trusts and income trusts.

To achieve its investment objective, the Fund invests most of its assets in the RBC Canadian Equity Income Fund (the “underlying fund”). The underlying fund invests primarily in a diversified portfolio of Canadian equity securities including common and preferred shares, real estate investment trusts and income trusts. The underlying fund may also invest in fixed-income securities, such as government and corporate bonds, debentures and notes.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund’s overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Effective October 25, 2017, RBC GAM adopted the risk classification methodology under National Instrument 81-102 – Investment Funds (the “new risk classification methodology”) in respect of the RBC Corporate Class Funds. Pursuant to the new risk classification methodology, certain RBC Corporate Class Funds’ risk ratings were changed. RBC GAM reviews each fund’s risk rating on an annual basis or if there has been a material change to a fund’s investment objectives or investment strategies. Any changes to a fund’s risk rating are the result of RBC GAM’s annual review and the adoption of the new risk classification methodology.

There were no changes to the Fund’s risk rating during the reporting period.

Results of Operations

The Fund’s net asset value fell to $179 million as of March 31, 2018, from $194 million as of March 31, 2017. The decrease was due mainly to net redemptions.

Over the past year, the Fund’s Series A shares rose 0.5%, which underperformed the 1.7% rise in the benchmark. The Fund’s return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while the benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

Uncertainty returned to financial markets in early 2018 following a long period of strong returns and minimal volatility that lasted for most of the fiscal year. The reversal started with strong U.S. wage-growth data, which led to concerns that higher inflation may force the U.S. Federal Reserve to increase interest rates at a faster pace than previously anticipated. With markets beginning to find their feet in the latter stages of February, renewed concerns over U.S. trade protectionism resulted in additional volatility, starting with U.S. tariffs on steel and aluminum and continuing with Chinese threats in response.

Asset weighting was the primary negative affecting the portfolio, as the Fund’s overweight position in the Energy sector and underweight exposure to Canadian banks held back returns relative to the benchmark.

The Fund benefited from strong security selection in the Energy and Financials sectors. In the Energy sector, the Fund’s overweight position in Veresen contributed positively to performance, as it was acquired by Pembina Pipeline. A position in Norwegian state-controlled oil producer Statoil also aided returns. In the Financials sector, the portfolio benefited from the absence of Element Fleet Management, which declined significantly during the period on concern about a joint venture.

Recent Developments

Crude-oil prices have rallied as global inventories stabilized amid solid demand growth and OPEC members’ continued compliance with production limits. Production growth from U.S. shale producers will largely determine the direction of crude-oil prices. In Canada, energy producers have not benefited as much from the oil rally, due to pipeline bottlenecks and the resulting pricing discounts for Canada’s oil, which requires extensive refining. No new pipeline capacity is expected to arrive until late 2019, and rail transportation has been slow to clear the glut. While Canada’s Energy sector appears attractively priced relative to commodity prices, volatility is likely to persist until clarity emerges about the outlook for demand and infrastructure projects.

The economic backdrop remains positive by post-crisis standards, with many of the macroeconomic indicators monitored by the portfolio manager showing reasons to remain positive. While key risks of an aging business cycle, rising interest rates and protectionism persist, upside potential remains from structural reforms in Japan and U.S. fiscal stimulus. On balance, the portfolio manager expects the positives to outweigh the negatives, further driving potential in the stock market.

⁴ Effective June 30, 2016, the management fees were changed in respect of Series A, Advisor Series, Advisor T5 Series, Series T5, Series D, Series F and Series FT5 mutual fund shares of the Fund. PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional shares of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.
