MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide total returns comprised of interest income and some capital growth by investing primarily in units of other funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate of RBC GAM (called the “underlying funds”), emphasizing funds that invest in high-quality fixed-income securities issued internationally by Canadian and foreign governments and in emerging-market currencies. The Fund may also invest in fixed-income securities issued by Canadian and foreign corporations and supranational agencies such as the World Bank.

To achieve its objective, the Fund selects underlying funds from the RBC Funds family or PH&N Funds family, including the RBC Global Bond Fund, a portion of which is sub-advised by RBC Global Asset Management (UK) Limited and the RBC Emerging Markets Foreign Exchange Fund, which primarily invests in investment-grade fixed-income securities issued internationally by the Canadian government and corporations or foreign governments and corporations, or provides exposure to emerging-market currencies.

The portfolio manager allocates and rebalances the Fund’s assets among underlying funds based on the underlying funds’ ability to help the Fund meet its investment objectives.

Results of Operations

The Fund’s net asset value was $5 million as of June 30, 2020.

Over the past six months, the Fund’s Series A units gained 1.3%. The Fund’s return is after the deduction of fees and expenses. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The Fund’s fixed-income allocation had a positive impact on returns. The currency allocation had a negative impact on performance.

Government bonds in major developed markets recorded above-average returns in the first half of 2020, led by fixed-income markets in the U.K., U.S. and Canada. Most government-bond yields fell to record lows in March as COVID-19 caused severe repercussions for the global economy, prompting major central banks and politicians to unleash unprecedented monetary and fiscal stimulus. The U.S. Federal Reserve (the “Fed”) cut its benchmark interest rate to between 0% and 0.25% in March, restarted government-debt purchases and extended them to include corporate bonds.

The U.S. 10-year Treasury yield fell to an all-time low of 31 basis points on March 9 as investors sought safe-haven assets and central banks ramped up bond buying. In Europe, the European Central Bank left its benchmark interest rate unchanged at a negative 0.5% but launched an enlarged €1.35 trillion asset-purchase program.

The deterioration in the growth outlook led to declines in all emerging-market assets during the period, including a significant overall weakening in emerging-market currencies against the U.S. dollar. Some currencies, such as the Brazilian real and the South African rand, declined by as much as 30% before staging partial recoveries. However, Asian currencies remained largely unchanged thanks to central-bank intervention and less severe COVID-19 outbreaks.

In the global bond holding, an allocation to corporate bonds, U.S. high-yield and emerging-market debt had a negative impact on relative performance as investors flocked to safe-haven government bonds amid the rapid escalation of COVID-19 cases. The losses from these non-government bonds were recouped in the following months. In addition, the portfolio manager added exposure in some areas that became attractively priced in March, such as Italian debt and corporate bonds in the U.S., Canada, Europe and emerging markets. These changes boosted the returns in this holding during the period. The currency portion’s returns were more muted in Canadian-dollar terms, as the Canadian currency declined with emerging-market currencies against the U.S. dollar in response to lower oil prices and aggressive Bank of Canada interest-rate cuts to buffer the economic impact of the pandemic.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects major central banks to keep benchmark rates unchanged in the next 12 months unless the economic recovery proceeds at a much faster pace than expected. Investors are discussing whether the Fed would lower interest rates to zero or below if it became necessary to jump-start the economy, although the Fed has indicated such a policy would be a last-resort measure given a lack of evidence that it works. As the pandemic subsides longer term, it would be reasonable to expect yields to rise from current levels. Government-bond issuance will likely increase significantly to fund stimulus programs that could put upward pressure on bond yields in the longer term. For the next 12 months, the focus will be on considering portfolio adjustments in reaction to policymakers’ responses to the evolving pandemic.

Emerging-market currencies should get support from extended fiscal and monetary stimulus, in the view of the portfolio manager. However, there are significant risks associated with some emerging market currencies given COVID-19, U.S.-China tensions and the fall U.S. presidential election. The portfolio manager has a negative view of the currencies of countries that are dependent on tourism, have limited health-care capacity and/or have older and denser populations.

Effective June 26, 2020, Advisor Series units are capped. On August 4, 2020, Advisor Series units with initial sales charge and/or low-load sales charge options will be re-designated to Series A units, as applicable. Advisor Series units with a deferred sales charge option, as applicable, will remain capped and invested based on their existing redemption schedule.

Effective January 1, 2020, Ms. Ruth Corbin was appointed as a member of the Independent Review Committee.

<sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on the direct expenses charged to the Fund and the Fund's proportionate share of the expenses of underlying funds, if any, for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

<sup>2</sup> The Fund's portfolio turnover rate gives an indication of the level of activity employed by the portfolio manager. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the year. The higher the Fund's portfolio turnover rate in a year, the greater the trading costs payable by the Fund in the year, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the year. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of the Fund. The portfolio turnover rate is not applicable to money market funds.

<sup>3</sup> The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period. The trading expense ratio is not applicable to fixed-income transactions.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

	Management Fees	Breakdown of Services
		Distribution	Other*
Series A	1.45%	52%	48%
Advisor Series	1.45%	52%	48%
Series D	0.95%	26%	74%
Series F	0.70%	—	100%

Series O – no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year or interim period.

Series A, Advisor Series, Series D, Series F and Series O units have been available for sale to unitholders since January 29, 2018.

Inception dates are not provided for series that have been in existence for more than 10 years.

For the 12-month periods ended December 31 and the six-month period ended June 30, 2020.
