MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide total returns comprised of interest income and capital growth by investing primarily in government debt securities of emerging-market countries. The Fund may also invest in emerging-market corporate bonds and government debt securities of developed countries.

To achieve the Fund's objective, the portfolio manager invests mainly in U.S. dollar-denominated bonds issued by governments of emerging-market countries. The Fund may also invest in bonds of such countries denominated in another G7 currency or in the local currencies of these countries.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value was $1.4 billion as of June 30, 2022.

Over the past six months, the Fund's Series A units lost 18.7%. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

Bonds issued by emerging-market governments declined in the first six months of 2022, their worst start to a year since 1994, as soaring inflation led to a broad decline in fixed-income prices and investors shied away from assets perceived to carry higher risks. The combination of inflation and sharply higher borrowing costs engendered concern that the world was in for a recession, further undermining relative returns for the riskiest bonds. The premium required by investors to hold emerging-market sovereign bonds, a sign of overall market risk, widened the most since 2020's first half, when the pandemic emerged.

Inflation, which had been steadily rising since last year, was further boosted by a continuation of supply constraints and, in February, Russia's invasion of Ukraine, which sent prices of energy and food soaring. Emerging markets that do not export oil or food were particularly hard-hit by inflation, as the strong U.S. dollar, pushed by higher interest rates, amplified its impact. COVID-19-related lockdowns in some of China's largest cities led to the weakest Chinese economic growth in decades.

The Fund's relative performance benefited from its lower exposure to Russia and complete lack of exposure to Belarus, which was sanctioned for its decision to allow its territory to serve as a Russian pathway into Ukraine. The portfolio manager had been reducing exposure to Russia since last year on governance concerns and sold the Fund's remaining Russian holdings soon after the invasion. Relative returns were negatively affected by higher-yield holdings in countries such as the Dominican Republic, Kenya, Ghana and Honduras. In addition, overweight positions in government-owned entities such as Pemex, Mexico's main oil company, hurt performance.

Recent Developments

Over the next few months, emerging-market sovereign bonds will likely continue to face an environment characterized by slow growth, higher inflation and rising interest rates. Offsetting the difficult backdrop are attractive valuations for most emerging-market sovereign bonds, initial signs that the Chinese economy may be turning the corner amid government stimulus and the possibility that a number of emerging-market central banks will soon be finished raising interest rates. In a scenario where these three considerations come to the fore, the portfolio manager believes that economic growth could pick up in the second half of 2022.

Effective April 11, 2022, all Advisor Series units with a deferred sales charge option were re-designated as Series A units. Any redemption fees associated with such re-designations were waived by RBC GAM.

Related-Party Transactions

RBC GAM, as trustee, earns a fee, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn fees and spreads in connection with various services provided to, or transactions with, the Fund, such as banking, brokerage, securities lending, foreign exchange and derivatives transactions. ¹ The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on the direct expenses charged to the Fund and the Fund's proportionate share of the expenses of underlying funds, if any, for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

² The Fund's portfolio turnover rate gives an indication of the level of activity employed by the portfolio manager. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the year. The higher the Fund's portfolio turnover rate in a year, the greater the trading costs payable by the Fund in the year, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the year. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of the Fund. The portfolio turnover rate is not applicable to money market funds.

³ The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs of the Fund and the Fund's proportionate share of such costs of underlying funds expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period. The trading expense ratio is not applicable to fixed-income transactions.

Effective January 1, 2019, the administration fees for Series A, Series D and Series F units were reduced to 0.05% from 0.10%; and for Series O units were reduced to 0.02% from 0.10%.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund’s performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund’s performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year or interim period.

Inception dates are not provided for series that have been in existence for more than 10 years.

Advisor Series units with initial sales charge and/or low-load sales charge options were re-designated as Series A units effective August 4, 2020. Advisor Series units with a deferred sales charge option were re-designated as Series A units effective April 11, 2022.
