MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund pursues long-term capital growth with a secondary focus on modest income. The Fund invests primarily in Canadian, U.S. and international equities and fixed-income securities. The Fund may use derivatives to protect against losses and to reduce the Fund's exposure to changes in the value of foreign currencies relative to the Canadian dollar.

The Fund uses a strategic asset-allocation approach that determines the appropriate asset mix with broad pre-established guidelines for each asset class, and adjusts the percentage of the Fund invested in each asset class as the market outlook changes.

The Fund's target weightings for each asset class are 40% for fixed income, 15% for Canadian equities, 25% for U.S. equities, 15% for international equities and 5% for emerging-markets equities. The target weightings for each asset class may be adjusted based on changes in the market outlook for each asset class. The actual allocation to each class will be no more than 15% above or below the target weighting for the fixed-income asset class and no more than 10% above or below the target weighting for each equities asset class.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value was $772 million as of June 30, 2022.

Over the past six months, the Fund's Series A units lost 15.0%. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The Fund's returns were hurt in the first half of 2022 by sharp declines in both stocks and bonds, the portfolio's two main types of assets, after the fastest global inflation in decades forced central banks to raise interest rates and/or halt bond purchases that had helped hold down borrowing costs. The sovereign-bond market had typically provided a total-return buffer against significant stock declines, even in the inflationary 1970s. During the period, however, record-low interest rates heading into the current inflationary period boxed central banks into a corner, and they could not avoid an aggressive monetary policy to subdue inflation even if it meant sacrificing economic growth. As a result, many stock markets were down at least 20% at one point in June, and bonds had also recorded double-digit declines.

Fixed-income losses occurred in bonds across all maturities, with longer-term bonds performing the worst. The only major bond market to hold firm was Japan's, as the country's central bank remained committed to holding down interest rates. The extra yield demand by investors to hold corporate bonds rose, but not as much as would have been expected, as corporate balance sheets were strengthened by low-interest-rate borrowings after the onset of the pandemic.

The Fund's returns were aided by stocks of Canadian energy companies and by small holdings in real estate and cash, as well as an underweight position in bonds. Performance was hindered by an overweight in stocks and the underperformance of the Fund's stock holdings in the developed markets of Europe and Asia. Over the course of the period, the portfolio manager decreased exposure to stocks and cash and increased exposure to bonds to take advantage of higher yields. The moves had, by the end of the period, left the Fund with a small overweight position in stocks, a small underweight in bonds and little cash.

Recent Developments

In the view of the portfolio manager, stock and bond prices already reflect an abundance of central-bank tightening and slower growth but have not yet factored in a deep recession. This situation suggests that any indications that central banks are planning to ease up on interest-rate hikes could result in a decent second half of the year for financial markets. Many investors have said they're expecting the worst, and the bar for success is much lower than it might otherwise be given the already sizable losses posted during the period.

Effective June 29, 2022, administration fees were reduced as follows: from 0.10% to 0.05% for Series A, Series T5, Series T8, Series D, Series F, Series FT5 and Series FT8 units.

Effective April 11, 2022, all Advisor Series units with a deferred sales charge option were re-designated as Series A units. Any redemption fees associated with such re-designations were waived by RBC GAM.

Both the management fee and fixed administration fee are calculated and accrued daily as a percentage of the net asset value of each series of units of the Fund. RBC GAM, as trustee, earns a fee, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn fees and spreads in connection with various services provided to, or transactions with, the Fund, such as banking, brokerage, securities lending, foreign exchange and derivatives transactions. RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn a foreign exchange spread when unitholders switch between series of funds denominated in different currencies. The Fund also maintains bank accounts and overdraft provisions with Royal Bank for which Royal Bank may earn a fee. Affiliates of RBC GAM that provide services to the Fund in the course of their normal businesses are discussed below.

Sub-Advisors

² The Fund's portfolio turnover rate gives an indication of the level of activity employed by the portfolio manager. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the year. The higher the Fund's portfolio turnover rate in a year, the greater the trading costs payable by the Fund in the year, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the year. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of the Fund. The portfolio turnover rate is not applicable to money market funds.
