<sup>4</sup> From January 11, 2016.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|-------------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is an asset allocation fund specifically designed for investors who are approaching or are already in retirement. The Fund seeks to provide regular income with a potential for modest capital appreciation by investing primarily in units of other funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate (the “underlying funds”), emphasizing mutual funds whose investment objective is to generate income.

To achieve the Fund’s objectives, the portfolio manager selects underlying funds based on their ability to provide cash flow and complement other funds within the portfolio. The decision to invest in an underlying fund is based on the portfolio manager’s assessment of the market outlook and the underlying fund’s ability to meet its stated investment objectives. The Fund’s target weightings for fixed-income and equity assets are 75% and 25%, respectively. The portfolio manager manages the allocations so that they will not be more than 15% above or below the target weightings.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks associated with investing in various asset classes. These risks are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the medium-to-long term and can tolerate low investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund’s overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund’s net asset value rose to $21 million as of December 31, 2018, from $14 million at the end of 2017. The increase was due to net inflows, partially offset by investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund’s Series A units lost 0.6%, which underperformed the 0.6% rise in the benchmark. The broad-based index 1 rose 1.4% and the broad-based index 2 fell 8.9%. The Fund’s return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth. Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the “EU”), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Canadian bond prices posted modest gains in 2018, outperforming U.S. Treasuries, as domestic yields were pressured lower by a weakening economic expansion and falling oil prices in the latter stages of 2018. These negatives, as well as rising global trade tensions, prompted the Bank of Canada, in December, to express reluctance at pushing forward with additional rate increases after hiking three times earlier in the year. The U.S. Federal Reserve (the “Fed”) boosted the federal funds rate four times in 2018, putting the benchmark short-term rate at its highest level since 2008, and continued scaling back its bond holdings. The European Central Bank began preparing investors for the possibility that it, too, might start gradually raising rates. Returns in the fixed-income segment of the portfolio were boosted by the RBC Canadian Short-Term Income Fund and the Phillips, Hager & North Total Return Bond Fund.

The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada’s equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the Fed and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were bolstered by the RBC QUBE Low Volatility Global Equity Fund and the RBC Global Dividend Growth Fund.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019. That said, further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected, and rising rates could limit bond returns. While the portfolio manager expects equity-market volatility to continue, stocks still offer superior return potential versus bonds, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Management Fees

|                | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series A       | 1.45%           | 52%                   | 48%    |
| Advisor Series | 1.45%           | 52%                   | 48%    |
| Series T5      | 1.45%           | 52%                   | 48%    |

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is an asset allocation fund specifically designed to meet the changing needs of investors who are saving money for retirement that commences around 2020 (the “target date”). It seeks to provide total returns comprised of income and modest capital appreciation.

The Fund invests primarily in a diversified portfolio of equity, fixed-income and/or money market securities from anywhere in the world, gradually shifting its asset mix to emphasize fixed-income and/or money market investments. The Fund invests up to 100% of its NAV in funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate.

Ten years after the target date of the Fund is reached, it is expected that the Fund’s asset allocation will be substantially similar to the RBC Retirement Income Solution.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks associated with investing in various asset classes. These risks are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund uses an asset allocation strategy that adjusts the portfolio’s asset mix relative to a target retirement date of 2020. Ten years after the Fund’s target date is reached, the Fund’s asset allocation is expected to be 75% in fixed-income funds and 25% in equity funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the medium-to-long term and can tolerate low investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund’s overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund’s net asset value rose to $37 million as of December 31, 2018, from $25 million at the end of 2017. The increase was due to net inflows, partially offset by investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund’s Series A units lost 2.1%. The fixed-income benchmark rose 1.4% and the equity benchmark declined 8.9%. The Fund’s return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth.

Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the “EU”), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Canadian bond prices posted modest gains in 2018, outperforming U.S. Treasuries, as domestic yields were pressured lower by a weakening economic expansion and falling oil prices in the latter stages of 2018. These negatives, as well as rising global trade tensions, prompted the Bank of Canada, in December, to express reluctance at pushing forward with additional rate increases after hiking three times earlier in the year. The U.S. Federal Reserve (the “Fed”) boosted the federal funds rate four times in 2018, putting the benchmark short-term rate at its highest level since 2008, and continued scaling back its bond holdings. The European Central Bank began preparing investors for the possibility that it, too, might start gradually raising rates. Returns in the fixed-income segment of the portfolio were boosted by the RBC Canadian Short-Term Income Fund and the Phillips, Hager & North Total Return Bond Fund.

The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada’s equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the Fed and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the Phillips, Hager & North Canadian Equity Underlying Fund and the Phillips, Hager & North Conservative Equity Income Fund.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019. That said, further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected, and rising rates could limit bond returns. While the portfolio manager expects equity-market volatility to continue, stocks still offer superior return potential versus bonds, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series A       | 1.50%           | 50%                   | 50%    |
| Advisor Series | 1.50%           | 50%                   | 50%    |
| Series T5      | 1.50%           | 50%                   | 50%    |
| Series F       | 0.75%           | —                     | 100%   |
| Series FT5     | 0.75%           | —                     | 100%   |

Series O – no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is an asset allocation fund specifically designed to meet the changing needs of investors who are saving money for retirement that commences around 2025 (the “target date”). It seeks to provide total returns comprised of income and modest capital appreciation.

The Fund invests primarily in a diversified portfolio of equity, fixed-income and/or money market securities from anywhere in the world, gradually shifting its asset mix to emphasize fixed-income and/or money market investments. The Fund invests up to 100% of its NAV in funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate.

Ten years after the target date of the Fund is reached, it is expected that the Fund’s asset allocation will be substantially similar to the RBC Retirement Income Solution.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks associated with investing in various asset classes. These risks are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund uses an asset allocation strategy that adjusts the portfolio’s asset mix relative to a target retirement date of 2025. Ten years after the Fund’s target date is reached, the Fund’s asset allocation is expected to be 75% in fixed-income funds and 25% in equity funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the medium-to-long term and can tolerate low-to-medium investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund’s overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund’s net asset value rose to $36 million as of December 31, 2018, from $20 million at the end of 2017. The increase was due to net inflows, partially offset by investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund’s Series A units lost 3.1%. The fixed-income benchmark rose 1.4% and the equity benchmark declined 8.9%. The Fund’s return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth. Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the “EU”), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Canadian bond prices posted modest gains in 2018, outperforming U.S. Treasuries, as domestic yields were pressured lower by a weakening economic expansion and falling oil prices in the latter stages of 2018. These negatives, as well as rising global trade tensions, prompted the Bank of Canada, in December, to express reluctance at pushing forward with additional rate increases after hiking three times earlier in the year. The U.S. Federal Reserve (the “Fed”) boosted the federal funds rate four times in 2018, putting the benchmark short-term rate at its highest level since 2008, and continued scaling back its bond holdings. The European Central Bank began preparing investors for the possibility that it, too, might start gradually raising rates. Returns in the fixed-income segment of the portfolio were boosted by the RBC Canadian Short-Term Income Fund and the Phillips, Hager & North Total Return Bond Fund.

The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada’s equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the Fed and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the Phillips, Hager & North Canadian Equity Underlying Fund and the Phillips, Hager & North Conservative Equity Income Fund.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019. That said, further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected, and rising rates could limit bond returns. While the portfolio manager expects equity-market volatility to continue, stocks still offer superior return potential versus bonds, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Effective January 1, 2020, the management fee will decline to 1.50% for Series A units, 1.50% for Advisor Series units and 0.75% for Series F units.

<sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is an asset allocation fund specifically designed to meet the changing needs of investors who are saving money for retirement that commences around 2030 (the “target date”). It seeks to provide total returns comprised of income and modest capital appreciation.

The Fund invests primarily in a diversified portfolio of equity, fixed-income and/or money market securities from anywhere in the world, gradually shifting its asset mix to emphasize fixed-income and/or money market investments. The Fund invests up to 100% of its NAV in funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate.

Ten years after the target date of the Fund is reached, it is expected that the Fund’s asset allocation will be substantially similar to the RBC Retirement Income Solution.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks associated with investing in various asset classes. These risks are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund uses an asset allocation strategy that adjusts the portfolio’s asset mix relative to a target retirement date of 2030. Ten years after the Fund’s target date is reached, the Fund’s asset allocation is expected to be 75% in fixed-income funds and 25% in equity funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the medium-to-long term and can tolerate low-to-medium investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund’s overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund’s net asset value rose to $48 million as of December 31, 2018, from $28 million at the end of 2017. The increase was due to net inflows, partially offset by investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund’s Series A units lost 3.5%. The fixed-income benchmark rose 1.4% and the equity benchmark declined 8.9%. The Fund’s return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth.

Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the “EU”), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Canadian bond prices posted modest gains in 2018, outperforming U.S. Treasuries, as domestic yields were pressured lower by a weakening economic expansion and falling oil prices in the latter stages of 2018. These negatives, as well as rising global trade tensions, prompted the Bank of Canada, in December, to express reluctance at pushing forward with additional rate increases after hiking three times earlier in the year. The U.S. Federal Reserve (the “Fed”) boosted the federal funds rate four times in 2018, putting the benchmark short-term rate at its highest level since 2008, and continued scaling back its bond holdings. The European Central Bank began preparing investors for the possibility that it, too, might start gradually raising rates. Returns in the fixed-income segment of the portfolio were boosted by the Phillips, Hager & North Total Return Bond Fund and the RBC Global Bond Fund.

The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada’s equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the Fed and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the Phillips, Hager & North Canadian Equity Underlying Fund and the RBC U.S. Mid-Cap Value Equity Fund.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019. That said, further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected, and rising rates could limit bond returns. While the portfolio manager expects equity-market volatility to continue, stocks still offer superior return potential versus bonds, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Effective January 1, 2025, the management fee will decline to 1.50% for Series A units, 1.50% for Advisor Series units and 0.75% for Series F units.

<sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series A       | 1.80%           | 56%                   | 44%    |
| Advisor Series | 1.80%           | 56%                   | 44%    |
| Series F       | 0.80%           | —                     | 100%   |

Series O – no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is an asset allocation fund specifically designed to meet the changing needs of investors who are saving money for retirement that commences around 2035 (the “target date”). It seeks to provide total returns comprised of income and modest capital appreciation.

The Fund invests primarily in a diversified portfolio of equity, fixed-income and/or money market securities from anywhere in the world, gradually shifting its asset mix to emphasize fixed-income and/or money market investments. The Fund invests up to 100% of its NAV in funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate.

Ten years after the target date of the Fund is reached, it is expected that the Fund’s asset allocation will be substantially similar to the RBC Retirement Income Solution.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks associated with investing in various asset classes. These risks are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund uses an asset allocation strategy that adjusts the portfolio’s asset mix relative to a target retirement date of 2035. Ten years after the Fund’s target date is reached, the Fund’s asset allocation is expected to be 75% in fixed-income funds and 25% in equity funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the medium-to-long term and can tolerate low-to-medium investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund’s overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund’s net asset value rose to $37 million as of December 31, 2018, from $21 million at the end of 2017. The increase was due to net inflows, partially offset by investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund’s Series A units lost 3.6%. The fixed-income benchmark rose 1.4% and the equity benchmark declined 8.9%. The Fund’s return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth.

Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the “EU”), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Canadian bond prices posted modest gains in 2018, outperforming U.S. Treasuries, as domestic yields were pressured lower by a weakening economic expansion and falling oil prices in the latter stages of 2018. These negatives, as well as rising global trade tensions, prompted the Bank of Canada, in December, to express reluctance at pushing forward with additional rate increases after hiking three times earlier in the year. The U.S. Federal Reserve (the “Fed”) boosted the federal funds rate four times in 2018, putting the benchmark short-term rate at its highest level since 2008, and continued scaling back its bond holdings. The European Central Bank began preparing investors for the possibility that it, too, might start gradually raising rates. Returns in the fixed-income segment of the portfolio were boosted by the Phillips, Hager & North Total Return Bond Fund and the RBC Global Bond Fund.

The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada’s equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the Fed and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the Phillips, Hager & North Canadian Equity Underlying Fund and the RBC U.S. Mid-Cap Value Equity Fund.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019. That said, further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected, and rising rates could limit bond returns. While the portfolio manager expects equity-market volatility to continue, stocks still offer superior return potential versus bonds, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Effective January 1, 2030, the management fee will decline to 1.50% for Series A units, 1.50% for Advisor Series units and 0.75% for Series F units.

<sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series A       | 1.80%           | 56%                   | 44%    |
| Advisor Series | 1.80%           | 56%                   | 44%    |
| Series F       | 0.80%           | —                     | 100%   |

Series O – no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is an asset allocation fund specifically designed to meet the changing needs of investors who are saving money for retirement that commences around 2040 (the “target date”). It seeks to provide total returns comprised of income and modest capital appreciation.

The Fund invests primarily in a diversified portfolio of equity, fixed-income and/or money market securities from anywhere in the world, gradually shifting its asset mix to emphasize fixed-income and/or money market investments. The Fund invests up to 100% of its NAV in funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate.

Ten years after the target date of the Fund is reached, it is expected that the Fund’s asset allocation will be substantially similar to the RBC Retirement Income Solution.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks associated with investing in various asset classes. These risks are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund uses an asset allocation strategy that adjusts the portfolio’s asset mix relative to a target retirement date of 2040. Ten years after the Fund’s target date is reached, the Fund’s asset allocation is expected to be 75% in fixed-income funds and 25% in equity funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the long term and can tolerate low-to-medium investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund’s overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund’s net asset value rose to $32 million as of December 31, 2018, from $15 million at the end of 2017. The increase was due to net inflows, partially offset by investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund’s Series A units lost 3.7%. The fixed-income benchmark rose 1.4% and the equity benchmark declined 8.9%. The Fund’s return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth.

Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the “EU”), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Canadian bond prices posted modest gains in 2018, outperforming U.S. Treasuries, as domestic yields were pressured lower by a weakening economic expansion and falling oil prices in the latter stages of 2018. These negatives, as well as rising global trade tensions, prompted the Bank of Canada, in December, to express reluctance at pushing forward with additional rate increases after hiking three times earlier in the year. The U.S. Federal Reserve (the “Fed”) boosted the federal funds rate four times in 2018, putting the benchmark short-term rate at its highest level since 2008, and continued scaling back its bond holdings. The European Central Bank began preparing investors for the possibility that it, too, might start gradually raising rates. Returns in the fixed-income segment of the portfolio were boosted by the Phillips, Hager & North Total Return Bond Fund and the RBC Global Bond Fund.

The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada’s equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the Fed and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the Phillips, Hager & North Canadian Equity Underlying Fund and the Phillips, Hager & North Canadian Growth Fund.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019. That said, further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected, and rising rates could limit bond returns. While the portfolio manager expects equity-market volatility to continue, stocks still offer superior return potential versus bonds, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Effective January 1, 2035, the management fee will decline to 1.50% for Series A units, 1.50% for Advisor Series units and 0.75% for Series F units.

<sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series A       | 1.80%           | 56%                   | 44%    |
| Advisor Series | 1.80%           | 56%                   | 44%    |
| Series F       | 0.80%           | —                     | 100%   |

Series O – no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is an asset allocation fund specifically designed to meet the changing needs of investors who are saving money for retirement that commences around 2045 (the “target date”). It seeks to provide total returns comprised of income and modest capital appreciation.

The Fund invests primarily in a diversified portfolio of equity, fixed-income and/or money market securities from anywhere in the world, gradually shifting its asset mix to emphasize fixed-income and/or money market investments. The Fund invests up to 100% of its NAV in funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate.

Ten years after the target date of the Fund is reached, it is expected that the Fund’s asset allocation will be substantially similar to the RBC Retirement Income Solution.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks associated with investing in various asset classes. These risks are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund uses an asset allocation strategy that adjusts the portfolio’s asset mix relative to a target retirement date of 2045. Ten years after the Fund’s target date is reached, the Fund’s asset allocation is expected to be 75% in fixed-income funds and 25% in equity funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the long term and can tolerate low-to-medium investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund’s overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund’s net asset value rose to $28 million as of December 31, 2018, from $13 million at the end of 2017. The increase was due to net inflows, partially offset by investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund’s Series A units lost 3.8%. The fixed-income benchmark rose 1.4% and the equity benchmark declined 8.9%. The Fund’s return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth.

Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the “EU”), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Canadian bond prices posted modest gains in 2018, outperforming U.S. Treasuries, as domestic yields were pressured lower by a weakening economic expansion and falling oil prices in the latter stages of 2018. These negatives, as well as rising global trade tensions, prompted the Bank of Canada, in December, to express reluctance at pushing forward with additional rate increases after hiking three times earlier in the year. The U.S. Federal Reserve (the “Fed”) boosted the federal funds rate four times in 2018, putting the benchmark short-term rate at its highest level since 2008, and continued scaling back its bond holdings. The European Central Bank began preparing investors for the possibility that it, too, might start gradually raising rates. Returns in the fixed-income segment of the portfolio were boosted by the Phillips, Hager & North Total Return Bond Fund and the RBC Global Bond Fund.

The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada’s equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the Fed and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the Phillips, Hager & North Canadian Equity Underlying Fund and the Phillips, Hager & North Canadian Growth Fund.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019. That said, further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected, and rising rates could limit bond returns. While the portfolio manager expects equity-market volatility to continue, stocks still offer superior return potential versus bonds, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Effective January 1, 2040, the management fee will decline to 1.50% for Series A units, 1.50% for Advisor Series units and 0.75% for Series F units.

<sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series A       | 1.80%           | 56%                   | 44%    |
| Advisor Series | 1.80%           | 56%                   | 44%    |
| Series F       | 0.80%           | —                     | 100%   |

Series O – no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is an asset allocation fund specifically designed to meet the changing needs of investors who are saving money for retirement that commences around 2050 (the “target date”). It seeks to provide total returns comprised of income and modest capital appreciation.

The Fund invests primarily in a diversified portfolio of equity, fixed-income and/or money market securities from anywhere in the world, gradually shifting its asset mix to emphasize fixed-income and/or money market investments. The Fund invests up to 100% of its NAV in funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate.

Ten years after the target date of the Fund is reached, it is expected that the Fund’s asset allocation will be substantially similar to the RBC Retirement Income Solution.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks associated with investing in various asset classes. These risks are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund uses an asset allocation strategy that adjusts the portfolio’s asset mix relative to a target retirement date of 2050. Ten years after the Fund’s target date is reached, the Fund’s asset allocation is expected to be 75% in fixed-income funds and 25% in equity funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the long term and can tolerate low-to-medium investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund’s overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund’s net asset value rose to $24 million as of December 31, 2018, from $9 million at the end of 2017. The increase was due to net inflows, partially offset by investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund’s Series A units lost 3.7%. The fixed-income benchmark rose 1.4% and the equity benchmark declined 8.9%. The Fund’s return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth. Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines.

In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the “EU”), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Canadian bond prices posted modest gains in 2018, outperforming U.S. Treasuries, as domestic yields were pressured lower by a weakening economic expansion and falling oil prices in the latter stages of 2018. These negatives, as well as rising global trade tensions, prompted the Bank of Canada, in December, to express reluctance at pushing forward with additional rate increases after hiking three times earlier in the year. The U.S. Federal Reserve (the “Fed”) boosted the federal funds rate four times in 2018, putting the benchmark short-term rate at its highest level since 2008, and continued scaling back its bond holdings. The European Central Bank began preparing investors for the possibility that it, too, might start gradually raising rates. Returns in the fixed-income segment of the portfolio were boosted by the RBC Canadian Short-Term Income Fund and the Phillips, Hager & North Total Return Bond Fund.

The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada’s equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the Fed and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the Phillips, Hager & North Canadian Equity Underlying Fund and the Phillips, Hager & North Canadian Growth Fund.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019. That said, further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected, and rising rates could limit bond returns. While the portfolio manager expects equity-market volatility to continue, stocks still offer superior return potential versus bonds, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Effective June 28, 2018, the Fund's risk rating changed from low to low-to-medium.

Effective January 1, 2045, the management fee will decline to 1.50% for Series A units, 1.50% for Advisor Series units and 0.75% for Series F units.

<sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series A       | 1.80%           | 56%                   | 44%    |
| Advisor Series | 1.80%           | 56%                   | 44%    |
| Series F       | 0.80%           | —                     | 100%   |

Series O – no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

The Fund is a strategic asset allocation fund, which focuses on providing income and the potential for modest capital growth. The Fund maintains a balance of investments across several asset classes by investing in funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate.

The Fund's target weightings for each asset class are 80% fixed income, 10% Canadian equities, 5% U.S. equities and 5% international equities. The actual allocation to each asset class will not be more than 15% above or below its target weighting for the fixed-income asset class, and no more than 10% above or below the target weighting for the equities asset classes.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks associated with investing in various asset classes. These risks are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the medium-to-long term and can tolerate low investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $12.2 billion as of December 31, 2018, from $13.1 billion at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to a combination of net redemptions and investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 2.0%, which underperformed the 0.2% rise in the benchmark. The broad-based index 1 rose 1.4% and the broad-based index 2 fell 8.9%. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth. Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the "EU"), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

The Fund's overweight position in equities and underweight position in fixed income had a negative impact on performance. Canadian bond prices posted modest gains in 2018, outperforming U.S. Treasuries, as domestic yields were pressured lower by a weakening economic expansion and falling oil prices in the latter stages of 2018. These negatives, as well as rising global trade tensions, prompted the Bank of Canada, in December, to express reluctance at pushing forward with additional rate increases after hiking three times earlier in the year. The U.S. Federal Reserve (the "Fed") boosted the federal funds rate four times in 2018, putting the benchmark short-term rate at its highest level since 2008, and continued scaling back its bond holdings. The European Central Bank began preparing investors for the possibility that it, too, might start gradually raising rates. Returns in the fixed-income segment of the portfolio were boosted by the RBC Global Bond Fund and the Phillips, Hager & North Bond Fund.

The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe earlier in the year, and while U.S. equities had been quite resilient throughout most of 2018, they joined the declines later in the year. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the Fed and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the RBC European Equity Fund and the Phillips, Hager & North Conservative Equity Income Fund.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019. That said, further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected, and rising rates could limit bond returns. The Fund remains underweight fixed income but the portfolio manager used last year's rise in yields to increase the bond allocation, as bonds can provide a cushion in an economic downturn. While the portfolio manager expects equity-market volatility to continue, stocks still offer superior return potential versus bonds, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect. The Fund remains overweight equities, but exposure remains well below the peak earlier in the cycle.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Effective June 30, 2016, the management fees were changed in respect of Series F units of the Fund. If the changes to the management fees would have been in effect throughout 2016, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series F – 0.87%.

FINANCIAL HIGHLIGHTS (cont.)

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund.

The management fee payable in respect of each of Series A, Advisor Series and Series T5 units of the Fund is a variable fee and is determined on a basis such that all fees and expenses that comprise the management expense ratio ("MER"), other than the additional cost of the GST/HST, will be equal to a specified percentage of the average net asset value of each of these series of the Fund ("Specified Percentage"). The Specified Percentage includes the management fee, administration fee, taxes (other than the additional cost of the GST/HST), other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds. The Specified Percentage for Series A, Advisor Series and Series T5 units is 1.60%.

The management fee payable to RBC GAM in respect of Series F and Series FT5 units of the Fund is a fixed fee and the MER of each of these series comprises the management fee, administration fee, taxes, other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds.

The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fee component of the MER for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees* | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|------------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                  | Distribution          | Other† |
| Series A       | 1.44%            | 52%                   | 48%    |
| Advisor Series | 1.44%            | 52%                   | 48%    |
| Series T5      | 1.44%            | 52%                   | 48%    |
| Series F       | 0.70%            | —                     | 100%   |
| Series FT5     | 0.70%            | —                     | 100%   |

Series O — no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Management fees for Series A, Advisor Series and Series T5 units represent the actual average management fee rate for the period ended December 31, 2018.

† Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is a strategic asset allocation fund, which focuses on providing income and the potential for moderate capital growth. The Fund maintains a balance of investments across several asset classes by investing in other funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate.

The Fund's target weightings for each asset class are 65% fixed income, 15% Canadian equities, 10% U.S. equities and 10% international equities. The actual allocation to each asset class will not be more than 15% above or below its target weighting for the fixed-income asset class, and no more than 10% above or below the target weighting for the equities asset classes.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks associated with investing in various asset classes. These risks are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the medium-to-long term and can tolerate low investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value rose to $28.2 billion as of December 31, 2018, from $27.1 billion at the end of 2017. The increase was due to net inflows, partially offset by investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 3.0%, which underperformed the 0.6% decline in the benchmark. The broad-based index 1 rose 1.4% and the broad-based index 2 fell 8.9%. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth. Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the "EU"), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

The Fund's overweight position in equities and underweight position in fixed income had a negative impact on performance. Canadian bond prices posted modest gains in 2018, outperforming U.S. Treasuries, as domestic yields were pressured lower by a weakening economic expansion and falling oil prices in the latter stages of 2018. These negatives, as well as rising global trade tensions, prompted the Bank of Canada, in December, to express reluctance at pushing forward with additional rate increases after hiking three times earlier in the year. The U.S. Federal Reserve (the "Fed") boosted the federal funds rate four times in 2018, putting the benchmark short-term rate at its highest level since 2008, and continued scaling back its bond holdings. The European Central Bank began preparing investors for the possibility that it, too, might start gradually raising rates. Returns in the fixed-income segment of the portfolio were boosted by the RBC Bond Fund and the RBC Global Bond Fund.

The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the Fed and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the RBC European Equity Fund and the RBC Canadian Dividend Fund.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019. That said, further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected, and rising rates could limit bond returns. The Fund remains underweight fixed income but the portfolio manager used last year's rise in yields to increase the bond allocation, as bonds can provide a cushion in an economic downturn. While the portfolio manager expects equity-market volatility to continue, stocks still offer superior return potential versus bonds, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect. The Fund remains overweight equities, but exposure remains well below the peak earlier in the cycle.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Effective June 30, 2016, the management fees were changed in respect of Series F units of the Fund. If the changes to the management fees would have been in effect throughout 2016, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series F – 0.92%.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund.

The management fee payable in respect of each of Series A, Advisor Series and Series T5 units of the Fund is a variable fee and is determined on a basis such that all fees and expenses that comprise the management expense ratio ("MER"), other than the additional cost of the GST/HST, will be equal to a specified percentage of the average net asset value of each of these series of the Fund ("Specified Percentage"). The Specified Percentage includes the management fee, administration fee, taxes (other than the additional cost of the GST/HST), other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds. The Specified Percentage for Series A, Advisor Series and Series T5 units is 1.75%.

The management fee payable to RBC GAM in respect of Series F and Series FT5 units of the Fund is a fixed fee and the MER of each of these series comprises the management fee, administration fee, taxes, other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds.

The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fee component of the MER for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees* | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|------------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                  | Distribution          | Other† |

| Advisor Series | 1.58%            | 47%                   | 53%    |
| Series T5      | 1.58%            | 47%                   | 53%    |
| Series F       | 0.75%            | —                     | 100%   |
| Series FT5     | 0.75%            | —                     | 100%   |

Series O — no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Management fees for Series A, Advisor Series and Series T5 units represent the actual average management fee rate for the period ended December 31, 2018.

† Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is a strategic asset allocation fund, which focuses on providing long-term capital growth and modest income. The Fund maintains a balance of investments across several asset classes by investing in other funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate.

The Fund's target weightings for each asset class are 45% for fixed income, 19% for Canadian equities, 20% for U.S. equities, 12% for international equities and 4% for emerging markets equities. The actual allocation to each asset class will not be more than 15% above or below its target weighting for the fixed-income asset class, and no more than 10% above or below the target weighting for the equities asset classes.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks associated with investing in various asset classes. These risks are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the medium-to-long term and can tolerate low-to-medium investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value rose to $31.1 billion as of December 31, 2018, from $28.2 billion at the end of 2017. The increase was due to net inflows, partially offset by investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 3.6%, which underperformed the 1.2% decline in the benchmark. The broad-based index 1 rose 1.4% and the broad-based index 2 fell 8.9%. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth. Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the "EU"), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

The Fund's overweight position in equities and underweight position in fixed income had a neutral impact on performance. Canadian bond prices posted modest gains in 2018, outperforming U.S. Treasuries, as domestic yields were pressured lower by a weakening economic expansion and falling oil prices in the latter stages of 2018. These negatives, as well as rising global trade tensions, prompted the Bank of Canada, in December, to express reluctance at pushing forward with additional rate increases after hiking three times earlier in the year. The U.S. Federal Reserve (the "Fed") boosted the federal funds rate four times in 2018, putting the benchmark short-term rate at its highest level since 2008, and continued scaling back its bond holdings. The European Central Bank began preparing investors for the possibility that it, too, might start gradually raising rates. Returns in the fixed-income segment of the portfolio were boosted by the RBC Bond Fund and the RBC Global Bond Fund.

The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the Fed and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the RBC European Equity Fund and the RBC Private Canadian Equity Pool.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019. That said, further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected, and rising rates could limit bond returns. The Fund remains underweight fixed income but the portfolio manager used last year's rise in yields to increase the bond allocation, as bonds can provide a cushion in an economic downturn. While the portfolio manager expects equity-market volatility to continue, stocks still offer superior return potential versus bonds, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect. The Fund remains overweight equities, but exposure remains well below the peak earlier in the cycle.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Effective June 30, 2016, the management fees were changed in respect of Series F units of the Fund. If the changes to the management fees would have been in effect throughout 2016, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series F – 0.98%.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund.

The management fee payable in respect of each of Series A, Advisor Series and Series T5 units of the Fund is a variable fee and is determined on a basis such that all fees and expenses that comprise the management expense ratio ("MER"), other than the additional cost of the GST/HST, will be equal to a specified percentage of the average net asset value of each of these series of the Fund ("Specified Percentage"). The Specified Percentage includes the management fee, administration fee, taxes (other than the additional cost of the GST/HST), other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds. The Specified Percentage for Series A, Advisor Series and Series T5 units is 1.85%.

The management fee payable to RBC GAM in respect of Series F and Series FT5 units of the Fund is a fixed fee and the MER of each of these series comprises the management fee, administration fee, taxes, other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds.

The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fee component of the MER for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees* | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|------------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                  | Distribution          | Other† |
| Series A       | 1.67%            | 60%                   | 40%    |
| Advisor Series | 1.67%            | 60%                   | 40%    |
| Series T5      | 1.67%            | 60%                   | 40%    |
| Series F       | 0.80%            | —                     | 100%   |
| Series FT5     | 0.80%            | —                     | 100%   |

Series O — no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Management fees for Series A, Advisor Series and Series T5 units represent the actual average management fee rate for the period ended December 31, 2018.

† Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is a strategic asset allocation fund, which focuses on providing long-term capital growth. The Fund maintains a balance of investments across several asset classes by investing in other funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate.

The Fund's target weightings for each asset class are 30% for fixed income, 23% for Canadian equities, 25% for U.S. equities, 16% for international equities and 6% for emerging markets equities. The actual allocation to each asset class will not be more than 15% above or below its target weighting for the fixed-income asset class, and no more than 10% above or below the target weighting for the equities asset classes.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks associated with investing in various asset classes. These risks are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the long term and can tolerate low-to-medium investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value rose to $9.2 billion as of December 31, 2018, from $8.7 billion at the end of 2017. The increase was due to net inflows, partially offset by investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 4.3%, which underperformed the 2.0% decline in the benchmark. The broad-based index 1 rose 1.4% and the broad-based index 2 fell 8.9%. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth. Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the "EU"), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

The Fund's overweight position in equities and underweight position in fixed income had a positive impact on performance. The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the U.S. Federal Reserve (the "Fed") and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the RBC European Equity Fund and the RBC Private Canadian Equity Pool.

Canadian bond prices posted modest gains in 2018, outperforming U.S. Treasuries, as domestic yields were pressured lower by a weakening economic expansion and falling oil prices in the latter stages of 2018. These negatives, as well as rising global trade tensions, prompted the Bank of Canada, in December, to express reluctance at pushing forward with additional rate increases after hiking three times earlier in the year. The Fed boosted the federal funds rate four times in 2018, putting the benchmark short-term rate at its highest level since 2008, and continued scaling back its bond holdings. The European Central Bank began preparing investors for the possibility that it, too, might start gradually raising rates. Returns in the fixed-income segment of the portfolio were boosted by the RBC Bond Fund and the RBC Global Bond Fund.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019. That said, further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected, and rising rates could limit bond returns. The Fund remains underweight fixed income but the portfolio manager used last year's rise in yields to increase the bond allocation, as bonds can provide a cushion in an economic downturn. While the portfolio manager expects equity-market volatility to continue, stocks still offer superior return potential versus bonds, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect. The Fund remains overweight equities, but exposure remains well below the peak earlier in the cycle.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Effective June 30, 2016, the management fees were changed in respect of Series F units of the Fund. If the changes to the management fees would have been in effect throughout 2016, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series F – 1.04%.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund.

The management fee payable in respect of each of Series A, Advisor Series and Series T5 units of the Fund is a variable fee and is determined on a basis such that all fees and expenses that comprise the management expense ratio ("MER"), other than the additional cost of the GST/HST, will be equal to a specified percentage of the average net asset value of each of these series of the Fund ("Specified Percentage"). The Specified Percentage includes the management fee, administration fee, taxes (other than the additional cost of the GST/HST), other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds. The Specified Percentage for Series A, Advisor Series and Series T5 units is 1.95%.

The management fee payable to RBC GAM in respect of Series F and Series FT5 units of the Fund is a fixed fee and the MER of each of these series comprises the management fee, administration fee, taxes, other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds.

The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fee component of the MER for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees* | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|------------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                  | Distribution          | Other† |
| Series A       | 1.76%            | 57%                   | 43%    |
| Advisor Series | 1.76%            | 57%                   | 43%    |
| Series T5      | 1.76%            | 57%                   | 43%    |
| Series F       | 0.85%            | —                     | 100%   |
| Series FT5     | 0.85%            | —                     | 100%   |

Series O — no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Management fees for Series A, Advisor Series and Series T5 units represent the actual average management fee rate for the period ended December 31, 2018.

† Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is a strategic asset-allocation fund that focuses on providing long-term capital growth. The Fund maintains a balance of investments in other funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate.

The Fund's target weightings for each asset class are 33% for Canadian equities, 35% for U.S. equities, 23% for international equities and 9% for emerging markets equities. The actual allocation to each asset class will not be more than 10% above or below its target weighting.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks, which are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund's asset allocation model is aimed at achieving maximum growth and directs almost all assets to equity funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the long term and can tolerate medium investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value rose to $2.0 billion as of December 31, 2018, from $1.9 billion at the end of 2017. The increase was due to net inflows, partially offset by investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 5.6%, which underperformed the 3.4% decline in the benchmark. The broad-based index declined 0.5%. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth. Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the "EU"), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the U.S. Federal Reserve and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the RBC European Equity Fund and the RBC Private Canadian Equity Pool.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019, although further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected. While the portfolio manager anticipates more equity-market volatility, stocks still offer modest return potential, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Effective June 30, 2016, the management fees were changed in respect of Series F units of the Fund. If the changes to the management fees would have been in effect throughout 2016, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series F – 1.11%.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund.

The management fee payable in respect of each of Series A, Advisor Series and Series T5 units of the Fund is a variable fee and is determined on a basis such that all fees and expenses that comprise the management expense ratio ("MER"), other than the additional cost of the GST/HST, will be equal to a specified percentage of the average net asset value of each of these series of the Fund ("Specified Percentage"). The Specified Percentage includes the management fee, administration fee, taxes (other than the additional cost of the GST/HST), other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds. The Specified Percentage for Series A, Advisor Series and Series T5 units is 2.05%.

The management fee payable to RBC GAM in respect of Series F and Series FT5 units of the Fund is a fixed fee and the MER of each of these series comprises the management fee, administration fee, taxes, other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds.

The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fee component of the MER for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees* | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|------------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                  | Distribution          | Other† |
| Series A       | 1.86%            | 54%                   | 46%    |
| Advisor Series | 1.85%            | 54%                   | 46%    |
| Series T5      | 1.85%            | 54%                   | 46%    |
| Series F       | 0.90%            | —                     | 100%   |
| Series FT5     | 0.90%            | —                     | 100%   |

Series O — no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Management fees for Series A, Advisor Series and Series T5 units represent the actual average management fee rate for the period ended December 31, 2018.

† Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is a strategic asset allocation fund, which focuses on providing income and the potential for moderate capital growth. The Fund maintains a balance of investments across several asset classes by investing in mutual funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate, as well as mutual funds of other companies.

The Fund's target weightings for each asset class are 65% for fixed income, 15% for Canadian equities, 10% for U.S. equities and 10% for international equities. The actual allocation to each asset class will not be more than 15% above or below its target weighting for the fixed-income asset class, and no more than 10% above or below the target weighting for the equities asset classes.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks associated with investing in various asset classes. These risks are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the medium-to-long term and can tolerate low investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $137 million as of December 31, 2018, from $158 million at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to a combination of net redemptions and investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 3.3%, which underperformed the 0.6% decline in the benchmark. The broad-based index 1 rose 1.4% and the broad-based index 2 fell 8.9%. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth. Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the "EU"), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

The Fund's overweight position in equities and underweight position in fixed income had a negative impact on performance. Canadian bond prices posted modest gains in 2018, outperforming U.S. Treasuries, as domestic yields were pressured lower by a weakening economic expansion and falling oil prices in the latter stages of 2018. These negatives, as well as rising global trade tensions, prompted the Bank of Canada, in December, to express reluctance at pushing forward with additional rate increases after hiking three times earlier in the year. The U.S. Federal Reserve (the "Fed") boosted the federal funds rate four times in 2018, putting the benchmark short-term rate at its highest level since 2008, and continued scaling back its bond holdings. The European Central Bank began preparing investors for the possibility that it, too, might start gradually raising rates. Returns in the fixed-income segment of the portfolio were boosted by the TD Canadian Bond Fund and the RBC Global Bond Fund.

The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the Fed and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the Bissett Canadian Equity Fund and the RBC Canadian Equity Fund.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019. That said, further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected, and rising rates could limit bond returns. The Fund remains underweight fixed income but the portfolio manager used last year's rise in yields to increase the bond allocation, as bonds can provide a cushion in an economic downturn. While the portfolio manager expects equity-market volatility to continue, stocks still offer superior return potential versus bonds, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect. The Fund remains overweight equities, but exposure remains well below the peak earlier in the cycle.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund.

The management fee payable in respect of each of Series A and Advisor Series units of the Fund is a variable fee and is determined on a basis such that all fees and expenses that comprise the management expense ratio ("MER"), other than the additional cost of the GST/HST, will be equal to a specified percentage of the average net asset value of each of these series of the Fund ("Specified Percentage"). The Specified Percentage includes the management fee, administration fee, taxes (other than the additional cost of the GST/HST), other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds. The Specified Percentage for Series A and Advisor Series units is 1.85%.

The management fee payable to RBC GAM in respect of Series F units of the Fund is a fixed fee and the MER of Series F units comprises the management fee, administration fee, taxes, other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds.

The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fee component of the MER for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees* | Breakdown of Services |                    |
|----------------|------------------|-----------------------|--------------------|
|                |                  | Distribution          | Other † |
| Series A       | 1.69%            | 44%                   | 56%                |
| Advisor Series | 1.69%            | 44%                   | 56%                |
| Series F       | 0.95%            | —                     | 100%               |

* Management fees for Series A and Advisor Series units represent the actual average management fee rate for the period ended December 31, 2018.

† Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is a strategic asset allocation fund, which focuses on providing long-term capital growth and modest income. The Fund maintains a balance of investments across several asset classes by investing in mutual funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate, as well as in mutual funds of other companies.

The Fund's target weightings for each asset class are 45% for fixed income, 19% for Canadian equities, 20% for U.S. equities, 12% for international equities and 4% for emerging markets equities. The actual allocation to each asset class will not be more than 15% above or below its target weighting for the fixed income asset class, and no more than 10% above or below the target weighting for the equities asset classes.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks associated with investing in various asset classes. These risks are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the medium-to-long term and can tolerate low-to-medium investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $293 million as of December 31, 2018, from $322 million at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to a combination of net redemptions and investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 4.6%, which underperformed the 1.2% decline in the benchmark. The broad-based index 1 rose 1.4% and the broad-based index 2 fell 8.9%. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth. Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the "EU"), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

The Fund's overweight position in equities and underweight position in fixed income had a negative impact on performance. Canadian bond prices posted modest gains in 2018, outperforming U.S. Treasuries, as domestic yields were pressured lower by a weakening economic expansion and falling oil prices in the latter stages of 2018. These negatives, as well as rising global trade tensions, prompted the Bank of Canada, in December, to express reluctance at pushing forward with additional rate increases after hiking three times earlier in the year. The U.S. Federal Reserve (the "Fed") boosted the federal funds rate four times in 2018, putting the benchmark short-term rate at its highest level since 2008, and continued scaling back its bond holdings. The European Central Bank began preparing investors for the possibility that it, too, might start gradually raising rates. Returns in the fixed-income segment of the portfolio were boosted by the RBC Global Bond Fund and the Phillips, Hager & North Total Return Bond Fund.

The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the Fed and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the RBC O'Shaughnessy U.S. Value Fund and the RBC Canadian Equity Fund.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019. That said, further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected, and rising rates could limit bond returns. The Fund remains underweight fixed income but the portfolio manager used last year's rise in yields to increase the bond allocation, as bonds can provide a cushion in an economic downturn. While the portfolio manager expects equity-market volatility to continue, stocks still offer superior return potential versus bonds, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect. The Fund remains overweight equities, but exposure remains well below the peak earlier in the cycle.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund.

The management fee payable in respect of each of Series A and Advisor Series units of the Fund is a variable fee and is determined on a basis such that all fees and expenses that comprise the management expense ratio ("MER"), other than the additional cost of the GST/HST, will be equal to a specified percentage of the average net asset value of each of these series of the Fund ("Specified Percentage"). The Specified Percentage includes the management fee, administration fee, taxes (other than the additional cost of the GST/HST), other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds. The Specified Percentage for Series A and Advisor Series units is 2.05%.

The management fee payable to RBC GAM in respect of Series F units of the Fund is a fixed fee and the MER of Series F units comprises the management fee, administration fee, taxes, other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds.

The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fee component of the MER for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees* | Breakdown of Services |                    |
|----------------|------------------|-----------------------|--------------------|
|                |                  | Distribution          | Other † |
| Series A       | 1.87%            | 53%                   | 47%                |
| Advisor Series | 1.87%            | 53%                   | 47%                |
| Series F       | 1.00%            | —                     | 100%               |

* Management fees for Series A and Advisor Series units represent the actual average management fee rate for the period ended December 31, 2018.

† Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is a strategic asset allocation fund, which focuses on providing long-term capital growth. The Fund maintains a balance of investments across several asset classes by investing in mutual funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate, as well as in mutual funds of other companies.

The Fund's target weightings for each asset class are 30% for fixed income, 23% for Canadian equities, 25% for U.S. equities, 16% for international equities and 6% for emerging markets equities. The actual allocation to each asset class will not be more than 15% above or below its target weighting for the fixed income asset class, and no more than 10% above or below the target weighting for the equities asset classes.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks associated with investing in various asset classes. These risks are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the long term and can tolerate low-to-medium investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $250 million as of December 31, 2018, from $278 million at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to a combination of net redemptions and investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 5.2%, which underperformed the 2.0% decline in the benchmark. The broad-based index 1 rose 1.4% and the broad-based index 2 fell 8.9%. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth. Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the "EU"), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

The Fund's overweight position in equities and underweight position in fixed income had a neutral impact on performance. The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the U.S. Federal Reserve (the "Fed") and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the RBC Canadian Equity Fund and the Invesco European Growth Class Fund.

Canadian bond prices posted modest gains in 2018, outperforming U.S. Treasuries, as domestic yields were pressured lower by a weakening economic expansion and falling oil prices in the latter stages of 2018. These negatives, as well as rising global trade tensions, prompted the Bank of Canada, in December, to express reluctance at pushing forward with additional rate increases after hiking three times earlier in the year. The Fed boosted the federal funds rate four times in 2018, putting the benchmark short-term rate at its highest level since 2008, and continued scaling back its bond holdings. The European Central Bank began preparing investors for the possibility that it, too, might start gradually raising rates. Returns in the fixed-income segment of the portfolio were boosted by the RBC Global Bond Fund and the RBC Bond Fund.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019. That said, further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected, and rising rates could limit bond returns. The Fund remains underweight fixed income but the portfolio manager used last year's rise in yields to increase the bond allocation, as bonds can provide a cushion in an economic downturn. While the portfolio manager expects equity-market volatility to continue, stocks still offer superior return potential versus bonds, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect. The Fund remains overweight equities, but exposure remains well below the peak earlier in the cycle.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund.

The management fee payable in respect of each of Series A and Advisor Series units of the Fund is a variable fee and is determined on a basis such that all fees and expenses that comprise the management expense ratio ("MER"), other than the additional cost of the GST/HST, will be equal to a specified percentage of the average net asset value of each of these series of the Fund ("Specified Percentage"). The Specified Percentage includes the management fee, administration fee, taxes (other than the additional cost of the GST/HST), other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds. The Specified Percentage for Series A and Advisor Series units is 2.25%.

The management fee payable to RBC GAM in respect of Series F units of the Fund is a fixed fee and the MER of Series F units comprises the management fee, administration fee, taxes, other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds.

The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fee component of the MER for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees* | Breakdown of Services |                    |
|----------------|------------------|-----------------------|--------------------|
|                |                  | Distribution          | Other † |
| Series A       | 2.06%            | 49%                   | 51%                |
| Advisor Series | 2.06%            | 49%                   | 51%                |
| Series F       | 1.05%            | —                     | 100%               |

* Management fees for Series A and Advisor Series units represent the actual average management fee rate for the period ended December 31, 2018.

† Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is a strategic asset allocation fund, which focuses on providing long-term capital growth. The Fund maintains a balance of investments in mutual funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate, as well as in mutual funds of other companies.

The Fund's target weightings for each asset class are 33% for Canadian equities, 35% for U.S. equities, 23% for international equities and 9% for emerging markets equities. The actual allocation to each equities asset class will not be more than 10% above or below its target weighting.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks, which are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund's asset allocation model is aimed at achieving maximum growth and directs almost all assets to equity funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the long term and can tolerate medium investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $192 million as of December 31, 2018, from $210 million at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to a combination of net redemptions and investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 6.2%, which underperformed the 3.4% decline in the benchmark. The broad-based index declined 0.5%. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth. Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the "EU"), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the U.S. Federal Reserve and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the RBC O'Shaughnessy U.S. Value Fund and the RBC Canadian Equity Fund.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019, although further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected. While the portfolio manager anticipates more equity-market volatility, stocks still offer modest return potential as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund.

The management fee payable in respect of each of Series A and Advisor Series units of the Fund is a variable fee and is determined on a basis such that all fees and expenses that comprise the management expense ratio ("MER"), other than the additional cost of the GST/HST, will be equal to a specified percentage of the average net asset value of each of these series of the Fund ("Specified Percentage"). The Specified Percentage includes the management fee, administration fee, taxes (other than the additional cost of the GST/HST), other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds. The Specified Percentage for Series A and Advisor Series units is 2.45%.

The management fee payable to RBC GAM in respect of Series F units of the Fund is a fixed fee and the MER of Series F units comprises the management fee, administration fee, taxes, other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds.

The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fee component of the MER for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees* | Breakdown of Services |                    |
|----------------|------------------|-----------------------|--------------------|
|                |                  | Distribution          | Other † |
| Series A       | 2.26%            | 44%                   | 56%                |
| Advisor Series | 2.26%            | 44%                   | 56%                |
| Series F       | 1.10%            | —                     | 100%               |

* Management fees for Series A and Advisor Series units represent the actual average management fee rate for the period ended December 31, 2018.

† Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is an asset allocation fund specifically designed to meet the changing needs of investors who are saving money for the purpose of funding their child's post-secondary education that commences around 2020. The Fund gradually shifts its asset mix from an emphasis on equity funds in its early years, to an emphasis on money market funds as its "target" year of 2020 approaches. The Fund invests its assets primarily in units of other funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate.

Over the life of the Fund, its portfolio will shift from a focus on funds with growth potential to a focus on funds that preserve capital.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks associated with investing in various asset classes. These risks are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund's goal is to decrease portfolio risk each year to reduce the risk of capital erosion as the target year nears. By 2020, any investments in stock and fixed-income funds will be shifted to money-market funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the medium-to-long term and can tolerate low-to-medium investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $850 million as of December 31, 2018, from $888 million at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to net redemptions, partially offset by investment returns.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units gained 0.4%. The fixed-income benchmark rose 1.4% and the equity benchmark declined 8.9%. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth. Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the "EU"), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Canadian bond prices posted modest gains in 2018, outperforming U.S. Treasuries, as domestic yields were pressured lower by a weakening economic expansion and falling oil prices in the latter stages of 2018. These negatives, as well as rising global trade tensions, prompted the Bank of Canada, in December, to express reluctance at pushing forward with additional rate increases after hiking three times earlier in the year. The U.S. Federal Reserve (the "Fed") boosted the federal funds rate four times in 2018, putting the benchmark short-term rate at its highest level since 2008, and continued scaling back its bond holdings. The European Central Bank began preparing investors for the possibility that it, too, might start gradually raising rates. Returns in the fixed-income segment of the portfolio were boosted by the RBC Canadian Short-Term Income Fund and the RBC Global Bond Fund.

The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the Fed and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the RBC European Equity Fund and the RBC Canadian Equity Fund.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019. That said, further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected, and rising rates could limit bond returns. While the portfolio manager expects equity-market volatility to continue, stocks still offer superior return potential versus bonds, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Effective January 1, 2018, the specified percentages were reduced as follows: from 1.55% to 1.00% for Series A units; and from 0.90% to 0.80% for Series D units.

Effective January 1, 2018, the management fees were reduced as follows: from 0.70% to 0.65% for Series F units.

<sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund.

The management fee payable in respect of each of Series A and Series D units of the Fund is a variable fee and is determined on a basis such that all fees and expenses that comprise the management expense ratio ("MER"), other than the additional cost of the GST/HST, will be equal to a specified percentage of the average net asset value of each of these series of the Fund ("Specified Percentage"). The Specified Percentage includes the management fee, administration fee, taxes (other than the additional cost of the GST/HST), other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds. The Specified Percentage for Series A units is 1.00% and Series D units is 0.80%.

The management fee payable to RBC GAM in respect of Series F units of the Fund is a fixed fee and the MER of Series F units comprises the management fee, administration fee, taxes, other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds.

The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fee component of the MER for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|          | Management Fees* | Breakdown of Services |                    |
|----------|------------------|-----------------------|--------------------|
|          |                  | Distribution          | Other † |
| Series A | 0.88%            | 28%                   | 72%                |
| Series D | 0.69%            | 22%                   | 78%                |
| Series F | 0.65%            | —                     | 100%               |

* Management fees for Series A and Series D units represent the actual average management fee rate for the period ended December 31, 2018.

† Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is an asset allocation fund specifically designed to meet the changing needs of investors who are saving money for the purpose of funding their child's post-secondary education that commences around 2025. The Fund gradually shifts its asset mix from an emphasis on equity funds in its early years, to an emphasis on money market funds as its "target" year of 2025 approaches. The Fund invests its assets primarily in units of other funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate.

Over the life of the Fund, its portfolio will shift from a focus on funds with growth potential to a focus on funds that preserve capital.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks associated with investing in various asset classes. These risks are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund's goal is to decrease portfolio risk each year to reduce the risk of capital erosion as the target year nears. By 2025, any investments in stock and fixed-income funds will be shifted to money-market funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the medium-to-long term and can tolerate low-to-medium investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value rose to $1.3 billion as of December 31, 2018, from $1.2 billion at the end of 2017. The increase was due to net inflows, partially offset by investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 2.1%. The fixed-income benchmark rose 1.4% and the equity benchmark declined 8.9%. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth. Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the "EU"), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Canadian bond prices posted modest gains in 2018, outperforming U.S. Treasuries, as domestic yields were pressured lower by a weakening economic expansion and falling oil prices in the latter stages of 2018. These negatives, as well as rising global trade tensions, prompted the Bank of Canada, in December, to express reluctance at pushing forward with additional rate increases after hiking three times earlier in the year. The U.S. Federal Reserve (the "Fed") boosted the federal funds rate four times in 2018, putting the benchmark short-term rate at its highest level since 2008, and continued scaling back its bond holdings. The European Central Bank began preparing investors for the possibility that it, too, might start gradually raising rates. Returns in the fixed-income segment of the portfolio were boosted by the RBC Bond Fund and the RBC Canadian Short-Term Income Fund.

The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the Fed and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the RBC European Equity Fund and the RBC Canadian Equity Fund.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019. That said, further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected, and rising rates could limit bond returns. While the portfolio manager expects equity-market volatility to continue, stocks still offer superior return potential versus bonds, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Effective January 1, 2020, (i) the specified percentage will decline to 1.55% for Series A units and 0.90% for Series D units and (ii) the management fee will decline to 0.70% for Series F units.

Effective January 1, 2023, (i) the specified percentage will decline to 1.00% for Series A units and 0.80% for Series D units and (ii) the management fee will decline to 0.65% for Series F units.

<sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund.

The management fee payable in respect of each of Series A and Series D units of the Fund is a variable fee and is determined on a basis such that all fees and expenses that comprise the management expense ratio ("MER"), other than the additional cost of the GST/HST, will be equal to a specified percentage of the average net asset value of each of these series of the Fund ("Specified Percentage"). The Specified Percentage includes the management fee, administration fee, taxes (other than the additional cost of the GST/HST), other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds. The Specified Percentage for Series A units is 1.75% and Series D units is 1.00%.

The management fee payable to RBC GAM in respect of Series F units of the Fund is a fixed fee and the MER of Series F units comprises the management fee, administration fee, taxes, other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds.

The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fee component of the MER for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|          | Management Fees* | Breakdown of Services |                    |
|----------|------------------|-----------------------|--------------------|
|          |                  | Distribution          | Other † |
| Series A | 1.59%            | 53%                   | 47%                |
| Series D | 0.87%            | 29%                   | 71%                |
| Series F | 0.80%            | —                     | 100%               |

* Management fees for Series A and Series D units represent the actual average management fee rate for the period ended December 31, 2018.

† Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is an asset allocation fund specifically designed to meet the changing needs of investors who are saving money for the purpose of funding their child's post-secondary education that commences around 2030. The Fund gradually shifts its asset mix from an emphasis on equity funds in its early years, to an emphasis on money market funds as its "target" year of 2030 approaches. The Fund invests its assets primarily in units of other funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate.

Over the life of the Fund, its portfolio will shift from a focus on funds with growth potential to a focus on funds that preserve capital.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks associated with investing in various asset classes. These risks are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund's goal is to decrease portfolio risk each year to reduce the risk of capital erosion as the target year nears. By 2030, any investments in stock and fixed-income funds will be shifted to money-market funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the medium-to-long term and can tolerate low-to-medium investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value rose to $796 million as of December 31, 2018, from $655 million at the end of 2017. The increase was due to net inflows, partially offset by investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 4.1%. The fixed-income benchmark rose 1.4% and the equity benchmark declined 8.9%. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth. Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the "EU"), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Canadian bond prices posted modest gains in 2018, outperforming U.S. Treasuries, as domestic yields were pressured lower by a weakening economic expansion and falling oil prices in the latter stages of 2018. These negatives, as well as rising global trade tensions, prompted the Bank of Canada, in December, to express reluctance at pushing forward with additional rate increases after hiking three times earlier in the year. The U.S. Federal Reserve (the "Fed") boosted the federal funds rate four times in 2018, putting the benchmark short-term rate at its highest level since 2008, and continued scaling back its bond holdings. The European Central Bank began preparing investors for the possibility that it, too, might start gradually raising rates. Returns in the fixed-income segment of the portfolio were boosted by the RBC Bond Fund and the Phillips, Hager & North Total Return Bond Fund.

The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the Fed and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the RBC European Equity Fund and the RBC Canadian Equity Fund.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019. That said, further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected, and rising rates could limit bond returns. While the portfolio manager expects equity-market volatility to continue, stocks still offer superior return potential versus bonds, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund.

The management fee payable in respect of each of Series A and Series D units of the Fund is a variable fee and is determined on a basis such that all fees and expenses that comprise the management expense ratio ("MER"), other than the additional cost of the GST/HST, will be equal to a specified percentage of the average net asset value of each of these series of the Fund ("Specified Percentage"). The Specified Percentage includes the management fee, administration fee, taxes (other than the additional cost of the GST/HST), other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds. The Specified Percentage for Series A units is 1.85% and Series D units is 1.10%.

The management fee payable to RBC GAM in respect of Series F units of the Fund is a fixed fee and the MER of Series F units comprises the management fee, administration fee, taxes, other fund costs and any fees and expenses of the underlying funds.

The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fee component of the MER for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund is an asset allocation fund specifically designed to meet the changing needs of investors who are saving money for the purpose of funding their child's post-secondary education that commences around 2035. The Fund gradually shifts its asset mix from an emphasis on equity funds in its early years, to an emphasis on money market funds as its "target" year of 2035 approaches. The Fund invests its assets primarily in units of other funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate.

Over the life of the Fund, its portfolio will shift from a focus on funds with growth potential to a focus on funds that preserve capital.

Risk

The Fund has multiple risks associated with investing in various asset classes. These risks are similar to the risks of investing in the underlying funds. The Fund's goal is to decrease portfolio risk each year to reduce the risk of capital erosion as the target year nears. By 2035, any investments in stock and fixed-income funds will be shifted to money-market funds. The Fund is suitable for investors who plan to hold their investments for the medium-to-long term and can tolerate low-to-medium investment risk.

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value rose to $61 million as of December 31, 2018, from $12 million at the end of 2017. The increase was due to net inflows, partially offset by investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 5.2%. The fixed-income benchmark rose 1.4% and the equity benchmark declined 8.9%. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The big macroeconomic themes in 2018 were tightening financial conditions, rising protectionism and slowing global growth. Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the "EU"), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU. In North America, protectionism fears eased following renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a trade deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Canadian bond prices posted modest gains in 2018, outperforming U.S. Treasuries, as domestic yields were pressured lower by a weakening economic expansion and falling oil prices in the latter stages of 2018. These negatives, as well as rising global trade tensions, prompted the Bank of Canada, in December, to express reluctance at pushing forward with additional rate increases after hiking three times earlier in the year. The U.S. Federal Reserve (the "Fed") boosted the federal funds rate four times in 2018, putting the benchmark short-term rate at its highest level since 2008, and continued scaling back its bond holdings. The European Central Bank began preparing investors for the possibility that it, too, might start gradually raising rates. Returns in the fixed-income segment of the portfolio were boosted by the RBC Bond Fund and the Phillips, Hager & North Total Return Bond Fund.

The sell-off in equities was led by emerging markets and Europe early in 2018, and U.S. equities, which were quite resilient for most of the year, joined the sell-off in the fourth quarter. The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. Emerging markets underperformed developed markets as interest-rate hikes by the Fed and U.S. tax reform bolstered the U.S. dollar. Emerging markets have historically underperformed when the U.S. dollar strengthens. Returns were held back by the RBC European Equity Fund and the RBC Canadian Equity Fund.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager expects the trend of slowing global growth to continue into 2019. That said, further gradual tightening of monetary policy is expected, and rising rates could limit bond returns. While the portfolio manager expects equity-market volatility to continue, stocks still offer superior return potential versus bonds, as long as earnings continue to grow as analysts expect.

Protectionism is arguably the largest macroeconomic risk today, although European politics, the U.S. government shutdown, possible central-bank-policy mistakes and troubles besetting specific emerging-market countries also threaten economic progress and investor confidence.

Effective January 1, 2025, the management fee will decline to 1.55% for Series A units, 1.05% for Series D units and 0.80% for Series F units.

Effective January 1, 2030, the management fee will decline to 1.45% for Series A units, 0.95% for Series D units and 0.70% for Series F units.

Effective January 1, 2033, the management fee will decline to 0.90% for Series A units, 0.80% for Series D units and 0.65% for Series F units.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|          | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|          |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series A | 1.85%           | 54%                   | 46%    |
| Series D | 1.10%           | 23%                   | 77%    |
| Series F | 0.85%           | —                     | 100%   |

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to achieve long-term returns consisting of regular dividend income and modest long-term capital growth.

The Fund invests primarily in common and preferred shares of major Canadian companies with above-average dividend yields, as well as income trusts. Stocks that qualify as investments will generally carry above-average dividend yields and offer the potential for increased payouts. The Fund may also invest in foreign securities with similar attributes.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $17.0 billion as of December 31, 2018, from $18.8 billion at the end of 2017. The decrease was due mainly to investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 8.6%, which outperformed the 8.9% decline in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. In the Energy sector, a number of proposed crude-oil pipelines are stalled due to regulatory delays and/or the opposition of environmental activists. In the housing market, regulatory changes to mortgage underwriting have cooled housing activity. On the trade front, protectionism fears have eased following trade renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Security selection was the primary driver of relative performance for the Fund in 2018. An overweight position in Thomson Reuters contributed to relative returns. Shares in the company advanced after it bought back a material amount of stock and shifted its focus towards its legal and tax units following the sale of a portion of its financial-services unit to Blackstone. The Fund also benefited from an overweight position in Loblaw, as the food retailer reported strong financial results, particularly at its retail drug division, Shoppers Drug Mart.

The headwinds facing the Canadian Energy sector were reflected in the Fund through its overweight position in PrairieSky Royalty. The company's share price slid amid a tough environment for western Canadian oil exploration and production businesses, from whom the firm collects royalties for the use of its land.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager's GDP growth forecast for 2019 is below consensus but nevertheless represents a slight increase from the prior forecast thanks to the tentative resolution of trade negotiations. The portfolio manager expects the overall pace of interest-rate increases in Canada to lag that of the U.S. Economic competitiveness is a cause for concern because Canada's tax rates and regulatory and environmental framework are seen as less business-friendly than in the U.S. The federal government's recent decision to allow accelerated depreciation may help level the playing field.

<sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Effective June 30, 2016, the management fees were changed in respect of Series D, Series F and Series FT5 units of the Fund. If the changes to the management fees would have been in effect throughout 2016, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series D – 1.05%, Series F – 0.77% and Series FT5 – 0.79%.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide long-term capital growth by investing in equity securities of major Canadian companies to provide broad exposure to economic growth opportunities in Canada.

The Fund seeks to identify the best potential for growth while limiting risk and may hold shares of smaller companies, income-trust units and securities of comparable foreign companies.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $2.1 billion as of December 31, 2018, from $2.5 billion at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to a combination of net redemptions and investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 9.7%, which underperformed the 8.9% decline in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. In the Energy sector, a number of proposed crude-oil pipelines are stalled due to regulatory delays and/or the opposition of environmental activists. In the housing market, regulatory changes to mortgage underwriting have cooled housing activity. On the trade front, protectionism fears have eased following trade renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

The Fund's relative performance was driven by asset weighting and security selection in the Health Care and Financials sectors. The Fund benefited from exposure to UnitedHealth Group, as the company reported strong financial results. In the Financials sector, the Fund was aided by an overweight position in Thomson Reuters. Shares in the company advanced after it bought back a material amount of stock and shifted focus towards its legal and tax units following the sale of a portion of its financial-services unit to Blackstone.

The headwinds facing the Canadian Energy sector were reflected in the Fund through its overweight position in PrairieSky Royalty. The company's share price slid amid a tough environment for western Canadian oil exploration and production businesses, from whom the firm collects royalties for the use of its land.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager's GDP growth forecast for 2019 is below consensus but nevertheless represents a slight increase from prior estimates thanks to the tentative resolution of trade negotiations. The portfolio manager expects the overall pace of interest-rate increases in Canada to lag that of the U.S. Economic competitiveness is a cause for concern because Canada's tax rates and regulatory and environmental framework are seen as less business-friendly than in the U.S. The federal government's recent decision to allow accelerated depreciation may help level the playing field.

Related-Party Transactions

Manager, Trustee and Portfolio Manager

RBC GAM is an indirect, wholly owned subsidiary of Royal Bank of Canada ("Royal Bank") and is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Both the management fee and fixed administration fee are calculated and accrued daily as a percentage of the net asset value of each series of units of the Fund. RBC GAM, as trustee, earns a fee, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn fees and spreads in connection with various services provided to, or transactions with, the Fund, such as banking, brokerage, securities lending, foreign exchange and derivatives transactions. RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn a foreign exchange spread when unitholders switch between series of funds denominated in different currencies. Registrars

Brokers and Dealers

The Fund has established standard brokerage and dealing agreements at market rates with related parties. These related-party commissions were $347,000 (2017 – $233,000) or 20% (2017 – 11%) of the total transaction costs paid for this Fund.

Inter-Fund Trading

The applicable standing instructions require that Related-Party Trading Activities and Inter-Fund Trading be conducted in accordance with RBC GAM policy and that RBC GAM advise the Independent Review Committee of a material breach of any standing instruction. RBC GAM policy requires that an investment decision in respect of Related-Party Trading Activities (i) is made free from any influence of Royal Bank or its associates or affiliates and without taking into account any consideration relevant to Royal Bank or its affiliates or associates, (ii) represents the business judgment of the portfolio manager, uninfluenced by considerations other than the best interests of the Fund, (iii) is in compliance with RBC GAM policies and procedures, and (iv) achieves a fair and reasonable result for the Fund. <sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Effective June 30, 2016, the management fees were changed in respect of Series A, Advisor Series, Series D and Series F units of the Fund. If the changes to the management fees would have been in effect throughout 2016, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series A – 1.89%, Advisor Series – 1.87%, Series D – 1.05% and Series F – 0.77%.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series A       | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |
| Advisor Series | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |
| Series T5      | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |
| Series D       | 0.85%           | 29%                   | 71%    |
| Series F       | 0.60%           | —                     | 100%   |
| Series FT5     | 0.60%           | —                     | 100%   |
| Series I       | 0.60%           | —                     | 100%   |

Series O – no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide long-term capital growth by investing primarily in equity securities of Canadian companies using a quantitative approach.

The Fund is managed using a quantitative investment model designed to select individual stocks while controlling portfolio-level risk. This involves building a portfolio that maximizes exposure to factors associated with outperformance, while controlling for exposure to risk factors. The portfolio manager will diversify across industries within the Canadian market.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value rose to $1.6 billion as of December 31, 2018, from $1.5 billion at the end of 2017. The increase was due to net inflows, partially offset by investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series O units lost 8.3%, which outperformed the 8.9% decline in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. In the Energy sector, a number of proposed crude-oil pipelines are stalled due to regulatory delays and/or the opposition of environmental activists. In the housing market, regulatory changes to mortgage underwriting have cooled housing activity. On the trade front, protectionism fears have eased following trade renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

In the Consumer Discretionary sector, a position in Dollarama held back the Fund's returns over the year. The Financials sector hurt performance, with positions in CI Financial and Brookfield Asset Management having a negative effect during the period.

In the Communication Services sector, the Fund's position in Rogers Communications added significantly to returns. Positions in the Industrials sector also aided performance, with a large contribution from a holding in Aecon.

Recent Developments

The year ended with global equity markets in retreat as rising interest rates, diminished fiscal stimulus and protectionist trade wars impeded economic growth across most economies. Among the headwinds facing the Canadian economy in 2019 are a lack of pipeline space to transport oil, debt-burdened consumers and a weakening housing market, all of which may stifle Canadian growth in the year ahead. The federal government's recent decision to allow accelerated depreciation may help level the playing field.

Related-Party Transactions

Manager, Trustee and Portfolio Manager

RBC GAM is an indirect, wholly owned subsidiary of Royal Bank of Canada ("Royal Bank") and is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. RBC GAM is responsible for the Fund's day-to-day operations, holds title to the Fund's property on behalf of its unitholders, provides investment advice and portfolio management services to the Fund and appoints distributors for the Fund. RBC GAM is paid a management fee by the Fund as compensation for its services. The Fund pays a fixed administration fee to RBC GAM, which, in turn, pays certain operating expenses of the Fund. Both the management fee and fixed administration fee are calculated and accrued daily as a percentage of the net asset value of each series of units of the Fund. RBC GAM, as trustee, earns a fee, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn fees and spreads in connection with various services provided to, or transactions with, the Fund, such as banking, brokerage, securities lending, foreign exchange and derivatives transactions. RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn a foreign exchange spread when unitholders switch between series of funds denominated in different currencies. The Fund also maintains bank accounts and overdraft provisions with Royal Bank for which Royal Bank may earn a fee. Affiliates of RBC GAM that provide services to the Fund in the course of their normal businesses are discussed below.

Distributors

Registrars

Custodian

RBC IS is the custodian and holds the assets of the Fund. RBC IS earns a fee as the custodian, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

Securities Lending Agent

Brokers and Dealers

The Fund has established standard brokerage and dealing agreements at market rates with related parties. These related-party commissions were $338,000 (2017 – $358,000) or 21% (2017 – 18%) of the total transaction costs paid for this Fund.

The applicable standing instructions require that Related-Party Trading Activities and Inter-Fund Trading be conducted in accordance with RBC GAM policy and that RBC GAM advise the Independent Review Committee of a material breach of any standing instruction. RBC GAM policy requires that an investment decision in respect of Related-Party Trading Activities (i) is made free from any influence of Royal Bank or its associates or affiliates and without taking into account any consideration relevant to Royal Bank or its affiliates or associates, (ii) represents the business judgment of the

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|          | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|          |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series F | 0.60%           | —                     | 100%   |

Series O – no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide long-term capital growth by investing primarily in equity securities of Canadian companies using a quantitative approach. The Fund seeks to achieve a reduced level of volatility of returns compared with the broader Canadian equity market.

The Fund is managed using a quantitative investment model designed to select individual stocks while controlling portfolio-level risk. This involves building a portfolio that maximizes exposure to factors associated with outperformance, while controlling for exposure to risk factors. The portfolio manager will diversify across industries within the Canadian market.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $1.7 billion as of December 31, 2018, from $2.1 billion at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to a combination of net redemptions and investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 7.3%, which outperformed the 8.9% decline in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. In the Energy sector, a number of proposed crude-oil pipelines are stalled due to regulatory delays and/or the opposition of environmental activists. In the housing market, regulatory changes to mortgage underwriting have cooled housing activity. On the trade front, protectionism fears have eased following trade renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

In the Consumer Discretionary sector, a position in Dollarama held back the Fund's returns over the year. Several holdings in the Financials sector also hurt performance, with positions in CI Financial and Power Financial having a negative effect during the period.

In the Information Technology sector, the Fund's position in CGI added significantly to returns. A position in the Industrials sector also aided performance, with a large contribution coming from a holding in CAE.

Recent Developments

The year ended with global equity markets in retreat as rising interest rates, diminished fiscal stimulus and protectionist trade wars impeded economic growth across most economies. Among the headwinds facing the Canadian economy in 2019 are a lack of pipeline space to transport oil, debt-burdened consumers and a weakening housing market, all of which may stifle Canadian growth in the year ahead. The federal government's recent decision to allow accelerated depreciation may help level the playing field.

<sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Effective June 30, 2016, the management fees were changed in respect of Series A, Advisor Series, Series T5, Series D, Series F and Series FT5 units of the Fund. If the changes to the management fees would have been in effect throughout 2016, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series A – 1.88%, Advisor Series – 1.82%, Series T5 – 1.92%, Series D – 1.03%, Series F – 0.76% and Series FT5 – 0.79%.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. ## MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide long-term capital growth by investing primarily in equity securities of Canadian companies and short-term fixed-income securities.

To achieve the Fund's objectives, the portfolio manager uses a systematic quantitative investment model designed to select stocks based on criteria related to their historical price patterns and volatility characteristics. The Fund invests primarily in large-cap Canadian equities although the portfolio manager may take advantage of attractive opportunities in mid-cap and small-cap companies.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $45 million as of December 31, 2018, from $58 million at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to net redemptions.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 4.2%, which outperformed the 8.9% decline in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. In the Energy sector, a number of proposed crude-oil pipelines are stalled due to regulatory delays and/or the opposition of environmental activists. In the housing market, regulatory changes to mortgage underwriting have cooled housing activity. On the trade front, protectionism fears have eased following trade renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Within the Fund, stock selection was negative for relative returns in seven of 11 sectors, with the Financials, Energy and Utilities sectors holding back returns the most. The Real Estate, Information Technology and Consumer Discretionary sectors contributed the most to relative performance.

Canadian Western Bank, Saputo and CIBC had a negative impact on performance, while positions in Stars Group, Parkland Fuel and CAPREIT had a positive impact.

The Fund's allocation to equities decreased substantially over the course of 2018, with the largest declines occurring during February, October and December. Sector exposure also fluctuated, with large decreases in the Financials, Utilities and Industrials sectors over the year, and the Fund had zero exposure to the Information Technology and Health Care sectors at year-end. The Consumer Staples sector was the only sector to which the Fund increased its allocation.

The number of equity holdings in the portfolio decreased since the beginning of the year. The Fund sold its Financials-sector stocks with the exception of insurance providers Intact Financial and Genworth MI Canada. Exposure to the Real Estate sector increased towards the end of the year, with the Fund taking positions in SmartCentres REIT, Northview Apartment REIT and RioCan REIT, among others.

As of December 31, 2018, 23% of the Fund was invested in Canadian equities and 77% in short-term investments.

Portfolio turnover was high for the Fund given the portfolio manager's model-driven investment process.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager's GDP growth forecast for 2019 is below consensus but nevertheless represents a slight increase from the prior forecast thanks to the tentative resolution of trade negotiations. The portfolio manager expects the overall pace of interest-rate increases in Canada to lag that of the U.S. Economic competitiveness is a cause for concern because Canada's tax rates and regulatory and environmental framework are seen as less business-friendly than in the U.S. The federal government's recent decision to allow accelerated depreciation may help level the playing field.

The applicable standing instructions require that Related-Party Trading Activities and Inter-Fund Trading be conducted in accordance with RBC GAM policy and that RBC GAM advise the Independent Review Committee of a material breach of any standing instruction. RBC GAM policy requires that an investment decision in respect of Related-Party Trading Activities (i) is made free from any influence of Royal Bank or its associates or affiliates and without taking into account any consideration relevant to Royal Bank or its affiliates or associates, (ii) represents the business judgment of the portfolio manager, uninfluenced by considerations other than the best interests of the Fund, (iii) is in compliance with RBC GAM policies and procedures, and (iv) achieves a fair and reasonable result for the Fund. <sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series A       | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |
| Advisor Series | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |
| Series D       | 0.85%           | 29%                   | 71%    |
| Series F       | 0.60%           | —                     | 100%   |

Series O – no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund provides the potential for long-term capital growth by investing primarily in equity securities of Canadian companies and follows a socially responsible approach to investing. Investments that qualify for inclusion in the Fund must possess strong environmental, social and governance practices relative to industry peers, as defined by Sustainalytics Best-of-Sector™ methodology.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $173 million as of December 31, 2018, from $176 million at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to investment losses, partially offset by net inflows.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 10.9%, which underperformed the 8.9% decline in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. In the Energy sector, a number of proposed crude-oil pipelines are stalled due to regulatory delays and/or the opposition of environmental activists. In the housing market, regulatory changes to mortgage underwriting have cooled housing activity. On the trade front, protectionism fears have eased following trade renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

In the Consumer Discretionary sector, a position in Dollarama held back the Fund's returns over the year. The Energy sector was negative for performance, with positions in Raging River Exploration and Whitecap Resources holding back returns during the period.

In the Information Technology sector, the Fund's overweight position in CGI and Open Text added significantly to returns. Various positions in the Financials sector also aided performance, with a meaningful contribution from a holding in Brookfield Asset Management.

Sustainalytics conducted one review covering the Fund's holdings in 2018. Eligibility was determined in relation to the Environmental, Social and Governance ("ESG") criteria developed by RBC GAM in consultation with Sustainalytics. In the opinion of Sustainalytics, all holdings in the Fund were eligible in the latest review, based on the above criteria. However, during the year, two companies were removed from the Fund as they no longer met certain ESG criteria.

Recent Developments

The year ended with global equity markets in retreat as rising interest rates, diminished fiscal stimulus and protectionist trade wars impeded economic growth across most economies. Among the headwinds facing the Canadian economy in 2019 are a lack of pipeline space to transport oil, debt-burdened consumers and a weakening housing market, all of which may stifle Canadian growth in the year ahead. The federal government's recent decision to allow accelerated depreciation may help level the playing field.

Related-Party Transactions

Manager, Trustee and Portfolio Manager

RBC GAM is an indirect, wholly owned subsidiary of Royal Bank of Canada ("Royal Bank") and is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. RBC GAM, as trustee, earns a fee, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn fees and spreads in connection with various services provided to, or transactions with, the Fund, such as banking, brokerage, securities lending, foreign exchange and derivatives transactions. RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn a foreign exchange spread when unitholders switch between series of funds denominated in different currencies. The Fund also maintains bank accounts and overdraft provisions with Royal Bank for which Royal Bank may earn a fee. Affiliates of RBC GAM that provide services to the Fund in the course of their normal businesses are discussed below.

Effective June 30, 2017, the administration fees were changed in respect of Series A units of the Fund. If the changes to the administration fees would have been in effect throughout 2017, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series A – 1.87%.

Effective June 30, 2016, the management fees were changed in respect of Series A, Advisor Series, Series D and Series F units of the Fund. If the changes to the management fees would have been in effect throughout 2016, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series A – 1.92%, Advisor Series – 1.87%, Series D – 1.05% and Series F – 0.78%.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series A       | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |
| Advisor Series | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |
| Series D       | 0.85%           | 29%                   | 71%    |
| Series F       | 0.60%           | —                     | 100%   |

Series O – no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund currently seeks to provide long-term capital growth by tracking the performance of the FTSE Canada All Cap Domestic Index and investing primarily in equity securities in substantially the same proportion as the index, either directly or indirectly through investment in other mutual funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate of RBC GAM.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $684 million as of December 31, 2018, from $784 million at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to a combination of net redemptions and investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 9.3%, which underperformed the 9.0% decline in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The best-performing sectors by contribution to returns were Information Technology, Consumer Staples and Real Estate. The Energy, Financials and Materials sectors ranked last.

Recent Developments

RBC GAM has called and will hold a special meeting of the unitholders of the Fund on March 22, 2019. Subject to unitholder approval, the investment objective of the Fund will change to permit the Fund to invest in equity securities, in substantially the same proportion as its benchmark index, either directly or indirectly through investment in other mutual funds. In addition, the benchmark index will be changed to the S&P/TSX Capped Composite Total Return Index and the sub-advisor of the Fund will change to BlackRock Asset Management Canada Limited. If the change in investment objective is approved, all changes are expected to be effective on or about April 5, 2019.

Manager, Trustee and Portfolio Manager

RBC GAM is an indirect, wholly owned subsidiary of Royal Bank of Canada ("Royal Bank") and is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. RBC GAM is responsible for the Fund's day-to-day operations, holds title to the Fund's property on behalf of its unitholders, provides investment advice and portfolio management services to the Fund and appoints distributors for the Fund. RBC GAM is paid a management fee by the Fund as compensation for its services. The Fund pays a fixed administration fee to RBC GAM, which, in turn, pays certain operating expenses of the Fund. Both the management fee and fixed administration fee are calculated and accrued daily as a percentage of the net asset value of each series of units of the Fund. RBC GAM, as trustee, earns a fee, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn fees and spreads in connection with various services provided to, or transactions with, the Fund, such as banking, brokerage, securities lending, foreign exchange and derivatives transactions. RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn a foreign exchange spread when unitholders switch between series of funds denominated in different currencies. The Fund also maintains bank accounts and overdraft provisions with Royal Bank for which Royal Bank may earn a fee. Affiliates of RBC GAM that provide services to the Fund in the course of their normal businesses are discussed below.

Distributors

RBC GAM, Royal Mutual Funds Inc., RBC Direct Investing Inc., RBC Dominion Securities Inc. and Phillips, Hager & North Investment Funds Ltd. are principal distributors of, or may distribute certain series of units of, the Fund. Dealers may receive an ongoing commission based on the total value of their clients' investment in certain series of units of the Fund.

Registrars

RBC GAM, RBC Investor Services Trust ("RBC IS") or Royal Bank (or a combination thereof) are the registrars of the Fund and keep records of who owns units of the Fund. The registrars earn a fee, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

Custodian

RBC IS is the custodian and holds the assets of the Fund. RBC IS earns a fee as the custodian, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

Securities Lending Agent

To the extent the Fund may engage in securities lending transactions, RBC IS may act as the Fund's securities lending agent. Any revenue earned on such securities lending is split between the Fund and the securities lending agent.

Other Related-Party Transactions

Pursuant to applicable securities legislation, the Fund relied on the standing instructions from the Independent Review Committee with respect to one or more of the following transactions:

Related-Party Trading Activities

- (a) trades in securities of Royal Bank;
- (b) investments in the securities of issuers for which a related-party dealer acted as an underwriter during the distribution of such securities and the 60-day period following the conclusion of such distribution of the underwritten securities to the public;
- (c) purchases of equity and debt securities from or sales of equity or debt securities to a related-party dealer, where it acted as principal; and

Inter-Fund Trading

- (d) purchases or sales of securities of an issuer from or to another investment fund or managed account managed by RBC GAM.

The applicable standing instructions require that Related-Party Trading Activities and Inter-Fund Trading be conducted in accordance with RBC GAM policy and that RBC GAM advise the Independent Review Committee of a material breach of any standing instruction. <sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Effective June 30, 2017, the management fees were changed in respect of Series F units of the Fund and the administration fees were changed in respect of Series A units of the Fund. If the changes to the management fees and administration fees would have been in effect throughout 2017, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series A – 0.66% and Series F – 0.17%.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|          | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|          |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series A | 0.50%           | 20%                   | 80%    |
| Series F | 0.05%           | —                     | 100%   |

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

Annual Compound Returns (%)

The table shows the annual compound returns for each series of the Fund and for each of the periods indicated ended on December 31, 2018, compared with the following benchmark:

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide long-term returns consisting of capital growth and current income by investing primarily in equity securities of Canadian and U.S. companies based on Strategy Indexing®, an investment portfolio management model developed in 1995 by Jim O'Shaughnessy.

The Fund selects securities on the basis of several factors including valuation, momentum and return of capital to shareholders. Valuation is based on a variety of measures, including a company's market capitalization ratios and financial statement metrics. The Fund also selects securities based on momentum which may include six-month total return and nine-month total return. Return of capital to shareholders may include dividends and buybacks. The Fund may hold up to 30% of its assets in U.S. stocks and uses currency hedges to reduce exposure to changes in the Canadian dollar versus the U.S. dollar.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $560 million as of December 31, 2018, from $713 million at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to a combination of net redemptions and investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 12.8%, which underperformed the 8.9% decline in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

Equity markets declined across the board amid global trade tensions and an environment of rising interest rates for much of the year. North American markets, buoyed by relatively strong U.S. economic growth, fell less than most other developed markets in Europe and Asia. The Canadian dollar depreciated in 2018 against most major currencies in developed and emerging markets.

The Fund's overweight exposure to smaller-capitalization stocks held back returns, as the largest stocks in the Canadian market outperformed. Value and momentum, the strategy's two key selection factors, had a negative impact. Exposure to stocks with high shareholder yield, which measures return of capital to shareholders, aided performance. The Fund's exposure to quality marginally aided performance.

Sector allocation contributed to performance, while security selection had a negative impact. An overweight allocation to the Health Care sector was the largest contributor to returns. An underweight allocation to the Energy sector and an overweight to Consumer Staples also contributed to returns. Security selection in the Health Care and Real Estate sectors contributed to returns, while security selection in the Industrials and Financials sectors was a negative. Allocations to Express Scripts, Boston Beer and Bausch Health aided performance. Allocations to Lundin Mining, Linamar and CI Financial held back returns.

The Fund has a 20% allocation to U.S. securities. It is the policy of the Fund to maintain currency hedges at all times in order to neutralize exchange-rate movements between the U.S. dollar and the Canadian dollar. This policy had a negative effect on returns during the period.

Due to the Fund's investment process and market conditions over the course of 2018, the sub-advisor decreased allocations to the Financials sector and increased allocations to the Industrials sector.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series A       | 1.25%           | 52%                   | 48%    |
| Advisor Series | 1.25%           | 52%                   | 48%    |
| Series D       | 1.00%           | 25%                   | 75%    |
| Series F       | 0.75%           | —                     | 100%   |

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide long-term returns consisting of capital growth and current income by investing primarily in equity securities of Canadian companies based on Strategy Indexing®, an investment portfolio management model developed in 1995 by Jim O'Shaughnessy.

The Fund selects securities on the basis of several factors including valuation, momentum and return of capital to shareholders. Valuation is based on a variety of measures, including a company's market capitalization ratios and financial statement metrics. The Fund also selects securities based on momentum which may include six-month total return and nine-month total return. Return of capital to shareholders may include dividends and buybacks.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $445 million as of December 31, 2018, from $537 million at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to a combination of net redemptions and investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 14.0%, which underperformed the 8.9% decline in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

Equity markets declined across the board amid global trade tensions and an environment of rising interest rates for much of the year. North American markets, buoyed by relatively strong U.S. economic growth, fell less than most other developed markets in Europe and Asia. The Canadian dollar depreciated in 2018 against most major currencies in developed and emerging markets.

Overweight exposure to smaller-capitalization stocks held back the Fund's returns, as the largest stocks in the Canadian market outperformed. Value and momentum, the strategy's two key selection factors, also had a negative impact on performance. The Fund's exposure to quality marginally aided performance.

Sector allocation contributed to performance, while stock selection had a negative impact. An underweight allocation to the Energy sector was the main contributor to returns. Additionally, overweight allocations to the Real Estate and Consumer Staples sectors aided returns. Security selection in the Health Care and Real Estate sectors aided returns, while security selection in Industrials and Financials held back performance. Canfor, WestJet and Linamar were among the stocks that had the most negative impact. Bausch Health, Great Canadian Gaming and Quebecor were the largest contributors.

Due to the Fund's investment process and market conditions over the course of 2018, the sub-advisor increased allocations to the Consumer Staples sector and decreased allocations to the Financials sector.

Recent Developments

The sub-advisor has no recent developments to report.

<sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                 | Distribution          | Other* |

| Series D       | 1.00%           | 25%                   | 75%    |
| Series F       | 0.75%           | —                     | 100%   |

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide a high level of monthly cash flow, relatively tax-efficient distributions consisting primarily of returns of capital, capital gains and interest income, as well as the potential for modest capital growth.

To achieve its objective, the Fund invests primarily in a diversified portfolio of Canadian equity securities including common and preferred shares, real estate investment trusts and income trusts. The Fund may also invest in fixed-income securities, such as government and corporate bonds, debentures and notes.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $2.9 billion as of December 31, 2018, from $3.5 billion at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to a combination of net redemptions and investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 9.1%, which underperformed the 8.9% decline in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

In 2018, the Fund made monthly distributions of 9.05 cents per Series A unit. For the year, the Fund made total distributions of approximately $1.33 per Series A unit, consisting of 63 cents per unit of dividends and 70 cents of capital gains. The annual payout reflects an additional year-end distribution of 24 cents per Series A unit.

The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. In the Energy sector, a number of proposed crude-oil pipelines are stalled due to regulatory delays and/or the opposition of environmental activists. In the housing market, regulatory changes to mortgage underwriting have cooled housing activity. On the trade front, protectionism fears have eased following trade renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Both asset weighting and security selection contributed to relative performance in 2018. The Fund benefited from an overweight position in Enbridge Income Fund Holdings after Enbridge Inc., the pipeline company, acquired the unit's outstanding shares in a deal involving cash and stock. An allocation to WPT Industrial REIT also aided the Fund's performance.

The headwinds facing the Canadian Energy sector were reflected in the Fund through its overweight position in PrairieSky Royalty. The company's share price slid amid a tough environment for western Canadian oil exploration and production businesses, from whom the firm collects royalties for the use of its land.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager's GDP growth forecast for 2019 is below consensus but nevertheless represents a slight increase from prior estimates thanks to the tentative resolution of trade negotiations. The portfolio manager expects the overall pace of interest-rate increases in Canada to lag that of the U.S. Economic competitiveness is a cause for concern because Canada's tax rates and regulatory and environmental framework are seen as less business-friendly than in the U.S. The federal government's recent decision to allow accelerated depreciation may help level the playing field.

<sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Effective June 30, 2016, the management fees were changed in respect of Series A, Advisor Series, Series D and Series F units of the Fund. If the changes to the management fees would have been in effect throughout 2016, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series A – 1.92%, Advisor Series – 1.86%, Series D – 1.04% and Series F – 0.77%.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series A       | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |
| Advisor Series | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |
| Series D       | 0.85%           | 29%                   | 71%    |
| Series F       | 0.60%           | —                     | 100%   |

Series O – no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide long-term capital growth by investing primarily in small- and mid-cap equity securities of companies that are listed on an exchange in Canada, within the Energy and Materials sectors.

The Fund's investment process is primarily based on fundamental research, although the portfolio manager will also consider quantitative and technical factors. Stock selection decisions are ultimately based on an understanding of the company, its business and its outlook. The portfolio manager invests in companies that are involved directly or indirectly in the exploration, development, production or distribution of natural or other resources. This includes companies that provide services to, use, or may benefit from, developments in the natural resources sector or companies that develop, design or provide products and services significant to a country's or region's infrastructure and its future evolution.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $215 million as of December 31, 2018, from $307 million at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 29.2%, which underperformed the 18.2% decline in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

Energy equities finished 2018 with losses after a fourth-quarter collapse in crude-oil prices, with most oil and gas shares ending the year near 52-week lows. The plunge in prices was precipitated by President Trump's unexpected decision to allow limited oil exports by Iran, the world's sixth-biggest oil producer, rather than impose sanctions that would ban exports outright. As a result, extra Saudi Arabian production designed to make up for lost Iranian output created excess supply. The price for benchmark West Texas Intermediate crude oil declined 25% for the year to US$45 per barrel. U.S. natural-gas prices were essentially unchanged from the start of the year, hovering around US$3 per million per British thermal unit.

The underperformance of the Fund versus the benchmark reflects the fact that the benchmark contains non-resource companies, which the Fund cannot buy.

In the Materials sector, prices for iron ore, steel, lumber and copper all weakened into the second half of 2018, as trade disputes and rising U.S. interest rates led to concern about a recession. Returns were hurt by an underweight position in the copper producer Nevsun, which rose on speculation that the company would be acquired; an underweight position in the container company Winpak, which rallied in December; and exposure to Norbord, a forest-products company that was hurt by supply concerns and a slowing U.S. housing market.

The Fund benefited from stock selection in the Energy sector, as underweight positions in Peyto Exploration, PrairieSky Royalty and Baytex Energy had a positive impact on relative returns. Overweight positions in MEG Energy, Enerflex and Enerplus contributed to the Fund's performance.

Recent Developments

President Trump's move on Iranian oil exports has temporarily disrupted the supply/demand balance in global crude-oil markets. However, OPEC's decision to cut daily production by 1.2 million barrels (about 1.2% of daily global production) for six months beginning in January 2019 should, in the view of the portfolio manager, lead to a better balance between supply and demand in the first half of 2019, assuming robust demand remains.

Worsening pollution in China and falling profitability in steelmaking could reduce mills' demand for iron ore in 2019, pressuring iron ore prices.

<sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Effective June 30, 2016, the management fees were changed in respect of Series A, Series D and Series F units of the Fund. If the changes to the management fees would have been in effect throughout 2016, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series A – 1.98%, Series D – 1.21% and Series F – 0.96%.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|          | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|          |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series A | 1.75%           | 57%                   | 43%    |
| Series D | 1.00%           | 25%                   | 75%    |
| Series F | 0.75%           | —                     | 100%   |

Series O – no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide long-term capital growth by investing primarily in equity securities of Canadian and U.S. companies that are priced below their true value.

To achieve its objective, the Fund identifies quality companies that are undervalued based on criteria such as assets, earnings and cash flow. The approach provides for a lower level of volatility than a portfolio of growth companies. The Fund may also invest in income trusts.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $2.9 billion as of December 31, 2018, from $3.1 billion at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to investment losses, partially offset by net inflows.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 9.0%, which underperformed the 3.9% decline in the benchmark. The broad-based index 1 rose 3.8% and the broad-based index 2 fell 8.9%. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. In the Energy sector, a number of proposed crude-oil pipelines are stalled due to regulatory delays and/or the opposition of environmental activists. In the housing market, regulatory changes to mortgage underwriting have cooled housing activity. On the trade front, protectionism fears have eased following trade renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

U.S. stocks fell overall in 2018 due to a significant pullback in the fourth quarter of the year. From April to September, U.S. stocks enjoyed a stretch of strong returns driven primarily by earnings growth. However, volatility emerged in October amid concern that rising interest rates would generate headwinds for economic and earnings growth. The recent market pullback has arguably priced in most apparent challenges, in the view of the portfolio manager, as reduced stock-market valuations mean that future returns will not be entirely reliant on earnings growth.

Through 2018, the relative performance of the Fund was hurt by security selection in both the Canadian and U.S. portions. The largest driver of performance came from the Energy sector and the Fund's overweight position in MEG Energy. Despite headwinds facing the sector, MEG advanced after Husky Energy tabled a hostile takeover bid consisting of cash and shares.

The headwinds facing the Canadian Energy sector were reflected in the Fund's Canadian segment through an overweight position in PrairieSky Royalty. The company's share price slid amid a tough environment for western Canadian oil exploration and production businesses, from whom the firm collects royalties for the use of its land. In the U.S. portion of the Fund, the Consumer Discretionary sector held back returns the most. An overweight position in Mohawk Industries also held back performance, as the manufacturer of flooring products, including carpets and ceramic tile, was exposed to a slower housing market and rising costs for raw materials used in its products.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager's Canadian GDP growth forecast for 2019 is below consensus but nevertheless represents a slight increase from the prior forecast thanks to the tentative resolution of trade negotiations. The portfolio manager expects the overall pace of interest-rate increases in Canada to lag that of the U.S. Economic competitiveness is a cause for concern because Canada's tax rates and regulatory and environmental framework are seen as less business-friendly than in the U.S. The federal government's recent decision to allow accelerated depreciation may help level the playing field.

In the U.S., a policy mistake by the U.S. Federal Reserve (the "Fed") – raising interest rates too fast, for example – or an escalation of protectionist moves by the Trump administration, which could increase the costs of goods, are the most likely causes of a downturn, given the potential for both to stamp out the expansion, in the view of the portfolio manager. In the upside scenario, the expansion would remain intact through 2021, perhaps because the Fed soon pauses its plan to hike rates or the Trump administration reaches a trade agreement with China.

Effective June 30, 2016, the management fees were changed in respect of Series A, Advisor Series, Advisor T5 Series, Series T5, Series D, Series F and Series FT5 units of the Fund. If the changes to the management fees would have been in effect throughout 2016, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series A – 1.93%, Advisor Series – 1.89%, Advisor T5 Series – 1.86%, Series T5 – 1.92%, Series D – 1.04%, Series F – 0.77% and Series FT5 – 0.75%.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund.

Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                   | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|-------------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                   |                 | Distribution          | Other* |

| Advisor T5 Series | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |
| Series T5         | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide long-term capital growth by investing in equity securities of Canadian and U.S. companies that offer above-average prospects for growth.

To achieve its goal, the Fund searches for companies with a history of sales and earnings growth and prospects for continued expansion. The Fund may invest in equities of large, medium and small companies, and may also invest in income-trust units.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $487 million as of December 31, 2018, from $546 million at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to a combination of net redemptions and investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 6.0%, which underperformed the 2.6% decline in the benchmark. The broad-based index 1 rose 3.8% and the broad-based index 2 fell 8.9%. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The S&P/TSX Composite Index, Canada's equity benchmark, lagged many global markets in 2018 as a result of headwinds such as falling energy prices, poor competitiveness, a cooling housing market and trade uncertainty. In the Energy sector, a number of proposed crude-oil pipelines are stalled due to regulatory delays and/or the opposition of environmental activists. In the housing market, regulatory changes to mortgage underwriting have cooled housing activity. On the trade front, protectionism fears have eased following trade renegotiations culminating in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico agreeing to a deal that, if approved by U.S. Congress, would supplant the North American Free Trade Agreement.

U.S. stocks fell overall in 2018 due to a significant pullback in the fourth quarter of the year. From April to September, U.S. stocks enjoyed a stretch of strong returns driven primarily by earnings growth. However, volatility emerged in October amid concern that rising interest rates would generate headwinds for economic and earnings growth. The recent market pullback has arguably priced in most apparent challenges, in the view of the portfolio manager, as reduced stock-market valuations mean that future returns will not be entirely reliant on earnings growth.

The Fund's Canadian and U.S. portions both underperformed the benchmark. In the Canadian segment, performance was hurt by a stake in UrtheCast, which sells geodata from space satellites. The stock fell after a funding shortage led to a change in its chief executive officer and a reassessment of the company's operations. Positive for the Fund's relative performance was the portfolio manager's decision to avoid Encana for most of the year, as the stock performed poorly. The stock was added to the Fund in November after the valuation fell significantly.

In the U.S. segment, lower-than-benchmark exposure to General Electric aided relative performance, given that the conglomerate's plan to turn itself around has so far disappointed investors.

The Fund does not generally have too much of a bias toward any single sector. However, slight underweight allocations to the Health Care and Consumer Discretionary sectors negatively affected relative returns in 2018.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager's Canadian GDP growth forecast for 2019 is below consensus but nevertheless represents a slight increase from the prior forecast thanks to the tentative resolution of trade negotiations. The portfolio manager expects the overall pace of interest-rate increases in Canada to lag that of the U.S. Economic competitiveness is a cause for concern because Canada's tax rates and regulatory and environmental framework are seen as less business-friendly than in the U.S. The federal government's recent decision to allow accelerated depreciation may help level the playing field.

In the U.S., a policy mistake by the U.S. Federal Reserve (the "Fed") – raising interest rates too fast, for example – or an escalation of protectionist moves by the Trump administration, which could increase the costs of goods, are the most likely causes of a downturn, given the potential for both to stamp out the expansion, in the view of the portfolio manager. In the upside scenario, the expansion would remain intact through 2021, perhaps because the Fed soon pauses its plan to hike rates or the Trump administration reaches a trade agreement with China.

Effective June 30, 2016, the management fees were changed in respect of Series A, Advisor Series, Series D and Series F units of the Fund. If the changes to the management fees would have been in effect throughout 2016, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series A – 1.92%, Advisor Series – 1.88%, Series D – 1.04% and Series F – 0.78%.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series A       | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |
| Advisor Series | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |
| Series D       | 0.85%           | 29%                   | 71%    |
| Series F       | 0.60%           | —                     | 100%   |

Series O – no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund invests primarily in common and preferred shares of major U.S. companies with above-average dividend yields in order to provide targeted exposure to opportunities in U.S. equity markets. Stocks that qualify as investments will generally carry above-average dividend yields and offer the potential for increased payouts.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value was $4.0 billion as of December 31, 2018, unchanged from the end of 2017.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units gained 0.4%, which underperformed the 3.8% rise in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

U.S. stocks fell overall in 2018 due to a significant pullback in the fourth quarter of the year. From April to September, U.S. stocks enjoyed a stretch of strong returns driven primarily by earnings growth. However, volatility emerged in October amid concern that rising interest rates would generate headwinds for economic and earnings growth. The recent market pullback has arguably priced in most apparent challenges, in the view of the portfolio manager, as reduced stock-market valuations mean that future returns will not be entirely reliant on earnings growth.

The Fund underperformed the benchmark in 2018 given that the Fund is not permitted to invest in companies that do not pay dividends. During the year, it was non-dividend-paying companies such as Amazon, Netflix, Berkshire Hathaway and Adobe that generally outperformed. Overweight positions in the tobacco companies Altria Group and Philip Morris International also hurt performance. Philip Morris fell early in the year on weak earnings, largely driven by lower-than-expected sales of its smokeless product in Japan. Altria Group serves an entirely different market but was dragged down by Philip Morris's poor results.

The Fund held up relatively well in the fourth quarter amid volatile markets. Exposure to companies and sectors that tend to fall less in a down market aided relative returns late in the year, as did the portfolio manager's decision to devote a portion of the Fund's assets to fixed income, as allowed under the mandate.

Portfolio turnover can be high for the Fund, as the portfolio manager attempts to generate better returns through active security and sector selection.

Recent Developments

While the portfolio manager's base case is for stocks to rise modestly over the next year, there are several scenarios that could lead to different outcomes. A policy mistake by the U.S. Federal Reserve (the "Fed") – raising interest rates too fast, for example – or an escalation of protectionist moves by the Trump administration, which could increase the costs of goods, are the most likely causes of a downturn, given the potential for both to stamp out the expansion, in the view of the portfolio manager. In the upside scenario, the expansion would remain intact through 2021, perhaps because the Fed soon pauses its plan to hike rates or the Trump administration reaches a trade agreement with China.

Related-Party Transactions

Manager, Trustee and Portfolio Manager

RBC GAM is an indirect, wholly owned subsidiary of Royal Bank of Canada ("Royal Bank") and is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. RBC GAM is responsible for the Fund's day-to-day operations, holds title to the Fund's property on behalf of its unitholders, provides investment advice and portfolio management services to the Fund and appoints distributors for the Fund. RBC GAM is paid a management fee by the Fund as compensation for its services. The Fund pays a fixed administration fee to RBC GAM, which, in turn, pays certain operating expenses of the Fund. Both the management fee and fixed administration fee are calculated and accrued daily as a percentage of the net asset value of each series of units of the Fund. RBC GAM, as trustee, earns a fee, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn fees and spreads in connection with various services provided to, or transactions with, the Fund, such as banking, brokerage, securities lending, foreign exchange and derivatives transactions. RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn a foreign exchange spread when unitholders switch between series of funds denominated in different currencies. The Fund also maintains bank accounts and overdraft provisions with Royal Bank for which Royal Bank may earn a fee. Affiliates of RBC GAM that provide services to the Fund in the course of their normal businesses are discussed below.

Distributors

Registrars

RBC GAM, RBC Investor Services Trust ("RBC IS") or Royal Bank (or a combination thereof) are the registrars of the Fund and keep records of who owns units of the Fund. The registrars earn a fee, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

Custodian

RBC IS is the custodian and holds the assets of the Fund. RBC IS earns a fee as the custodian, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

Securities Lending Agent

To the extent the Fund may engage in securities lending transactions, RBC IS may act as the Fund's securities lending agent. Any revenue earned on such securities lending is split between the Fund and the securities lending agent.

Brokers and Dealers

The Fund has established standard brokerage and dealing agreements at market rates with related parties. These related-party commissions were $521,000 (2017 – $214,000) or 11% (2017 – 6%) of the total transaction costs paid for this Fund.

Inter-Fund Trading

- (d) purchases or sales of securities of an issuer from or to another investment fund or managed account managed by RBC GAM.

The applicable standing instructions require that Related-Party Trading Activities and Inter-Fund Trading be conducted in accordance with RBC GAM policy and that RBC GAM advise the Independent Review Committee of a material breach of any standing instruction. RBC GAM policy requires that an investment decision in respect of Related-Party Trading Activities (i) is made free from any influence of Royal Bank or its associates or affiliates and without taking into account any consideration relevant to Royal Bank or its affiliates or associates, (ii) represents the business judgment of the portfolio manager, uninfluenced by considerations other than the best interests of the Fund, (iii) is in compliance with RBC GAM policies and procedures, and (iv) achieves a fair and reasonable result for the Fund. <sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to achieve long-term capital growth and regular dividend income through investing primarily in common and preferred shares of U.S. companies with above-average dividend yields while minimizing the exposure to currency fluctuations between the U.S. and Canadian dollars. The Fund may also invest in other mutual funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate.

The portfolio manager selects companies with a sustainable dividend and good long-term prospects of growing their dividends and with potential to create value through events such as stock buybacks, takeovers and the reduction of debt. The Fund uses currency hedges to minimize the impact of fluctuations in the U.S. dollar versus the Canadian dollar.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value rose to $40 million as of December 31, 2018, from $26 million at the end of 2017. The increase was due to net inflows, partially offset by investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 8.3%, which underperformed the 5.7% decline in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

U.S. stocks fell overall in 2018 due to a significant pullback in the fourth quarter of the year. From April to September, U.S. stocks enjoyed a stretch of strong returns driven primarily by earnings growth. However, volatility emerged in October amid concern that rising interest rates would generate headwinds for economic and earnings growth. The recent market pullback has arguably priced in most apparent challenges, in the view of the portfolio manager, as reduced stock-market valuations mean that future returns will not be entirely reliant on earnings growth.

The portfolio underperformed the benchmark in 2018 given that the Fund is not permitted to invest in companies that do not pay dividends. During the year, it was non-dividend-paying companies such as Amazon, Netflix, Berkshire Hathaway and Adobe that generally outperformed. Overweight positions in the tobacco companies Altria Group and Philip Morris International also hurt performance. Philip Morris fell early in the year on weak earnings, largely driven by lower-than-expected sales of its smokeless product in Japan. Altria Group serves an entirely different market but was dragged down by Philip Morris's poor results.

The Fund held up relatively well in the fourth quarter amid volatile markets. Exposure to companies and sectors that tend to fall less in a down market aided relative returns late in the year, as did the portfolio manager's decision to devote a portion of the Fund's assets to fixed income, as allowed under the mandate.

It is the policy of the Fund to maintain currency hedges at all times in order to neutralize exchange-rate movements between the U.S. dollar and the Canadian dollar. This policy had a negative impact on the Fund in 2018.

Portfolio turnover can be high for the Fund, as the portfolio manager attempts to generate better returns through active security and sector selection.

Recent Developments

While the portfolio manager's base case is for stocks to rise modestly over the next year, there are several scenarios that could lead to different outcomes. A policy mistake by the U.S. Federal Reserve ("the Fed") – raising interest rates too fast, for example – or an escalation of protectionist moves by the Trump administration, which could increase the costs of goods, are the most likely causes of a downturn, given the potential for both to stamp out the expansion, in the view of the portfolio manager. In the upside scenario, the expansion would remain intact through 2021, perhaps because the Fed soon pauses its plan to hike rates or the Trump administration reaches a trade agreement with China.

<sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide long-term capital growth by investing primarily in equity securities of U.S. companies, providing broad exposure to economic growth through the U.S. stock market.

The Fund diversifies across industries and selects companies with strong management, focused business models and the potential for growth in earnings and cash flow.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $1.9 billion as of December 31, 2018, from $2.0 billion at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to net redemptions, partially offset by investment returns.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units gained 1.7%, which underperformed the 3.8% rise in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

U.S. stocks fell overall in 2018 due to a significant pullback in the fourth quarter of the year. From April to September, U.S. stocks enjoyed a stretch of strong returns driven primarily by earnings growth. However, volatility emerged in October amid concern that rising interest rates would generate headwinds for economic and earnings growth. The recent market pullback has arguably priced in most apparent challenges, in the view of the portfolio manager, as reduced stock-market valuations mean that future returns will not be entirely reliant on earnings growth.

The Fund's performance this year was boosted by an allocation to the RBC U.S. Mid-Cap Growth Equity Fund. The Fund had strong security selection in the Consumer Discretionary and Information Technology sectors, with overweight positions in companies such as Adobe and Dollar General.

Positions in the RBC U.S. Mid-Cap Value Equity Fund and the RBC U.S. Small-Cap Core Equity Fund had the most significant negative impact on relative returns, as both funds underperformed their benchmarks in 2018.

Portfolio turnover can be high for the Fund, as the portfolio manager attempts to generate better returns through active security and sector selection.

Recent Developments

While the portfolio manager's base case is for stocks to rise modestly over the next year, there are several scenarios that could lead to different outcomes. A policy mistake by the U.S. Federal Reserve (the "Fed") – raising interest rates too fast, for example – or an escalation of protectionist moves by the Trump administration, which could increase the costs of goods, are the most likely causes of a downturn, given the potential for both to stamp out the expansion. In the upside scenario, the expansion would remain intact through 2021, perhaps because the Fed soon pauses its plan to hike rates or the Trump administration reaches a trade agreement with China.

Manager, Trustee and Portfolio Manager

RBC GAM is an indirect, wholly owned subsidiary of Royal Bank of Canada ("Royal Bank") and is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. RBC GAM is responsible for the Fund's day-to-day operations, holds title to the Fund's property on behalf of its unitholders, provides investment advice and portfolio management services to the Fund and appoints distributors for the Fund. Both the management fee and fixed administration fee are calculated and accrued daily as a percentage of the net asset value of each series of units of the Fund. RBC GAM, as trustee, earns a fee, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn fees and spreads in connection with various services provided to, or transactions with, the Fund, such as banking, brokerage, securities lending, foreign exchange and derivatives transactions. RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn a foreign exchange spread when unitholders switch between series of funds denominated in different currencies. The Fund also maintains bank accounts and overdraft provisions with Royal Bank for which Royal Bank may earn a fee. Affiliates of RBC GAM that provide services to the Fund in the course of their normal businesses are discussed below.

Distributors

Registrars

Custodian

RBC IS is the custodian and holds the assets of the Fund. RBC IS earns a fee as the custodian, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

Securities Lending Agent

To the extent the Fund may engage in securities lending transactions, RBC IS may act as the Fund's securities lending agent. Any revenue earned on such securities lending is split between the Fund and the securities lending agent.

Brokers and Dealers

The Fund has established standard brokerage and dealing agreements at market rates with related parties. These related-party commissions were $204,000 (2017 – $131,000) or 11% (2017 – 8%) of the total transaction costs paid for this Fund.

Other Related-Party Transactions

Pursuant to applicable securities legislation, the Fund relied on the standing instructions from the Independent Review Committee with respect to one or more of the following transactions:

Related-Party Trading Activities

The applicable standing instructions require that Related-Party Trading Activities and Inter-Fund Trading be conducted in accordance with RBC GAM policy and that RBC GAM advise the Independent Review Committee of a material breach of any standing instruction. RBC GAM policy requires that an investment decision in respect of Related-Party Trading Activities (i) is made free from any influence of Royal Bank or its associates or affiliates and without taking into account any consideration relevant to Royal Bank or its affiliates or associates, (ii) represents the business judgment of the portfolio manager, uninfluenced by considerations other than the best interests of the Fund, (iii) is in compliance with RBC GAM policies and procedures, and (iv) achieves a fair and reasonable result for the Fund. <sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Effective June 30, 2016, the management fees were changed in respect of Series A, Advisor Series, Series D and Series F units of the Fund. If the changes to the management fees would have been in effect throughout 2016, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series A – 1.94%, Advisor Series – 1.92%, Series D – 1.06% and Series F – 0.80%.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series A       | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |
| Advisor Series | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |
| Series T5      | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |
| Series D       | 0.85%           | 29%                   | 71%    |
| Series F       | 0.60%           | —                     | 100%   |
| Series FT5     | 0.60%           | —                     | 100%   |

Series O – no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide long-term capital appreciation primarily through investing in equities of U.S. companies while minimizing the exposure to fluctuations between the U.S. and Canadian dollars. The Fund seeks to provide broad exposure to superior investment opportunities in the U.S. equity market.

The Fund diversifies across industries and selects companies with strong management, focused business models and the potential for growth in earnings and cash flow. The Fund uses currency hedges to minimize the impact of fluctuations in the U.S. dollar versus the Canadian dollar.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $37 million as of December 31, 2018, from $41 million at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 7.7%, which underperformed the 5.7% decline in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

U.S. stocks fell overall in 2018 due to a significant pullback in the fourth quarter of the year. From April to September, U.S. stocks enjoyed a stretch of strong returns driven primarily by earnings growth. However, volatility emerged in October amid concern that rising interest rates would generate headwinds for economic and earnings growth. The recent market pullback has arguably priced in most apparent challenges, in the view of the portfolio manager, as reduced stock-market valuations mean that future returns will not be entirely reliant on earnings growth.

The Fund's performance this year was boosted by an allocation to the RBC U.S. Mid-Cap Growth Equity Fund. The Fund had strong security selection in the Consumer Discretionary and Information Technology sectors, with overweight positions in companies such as Adobe and Dollar General.

Positions in the RBC U.S. Mid-Cap Value Equity Fund and the RBC U.S. Small-Cap Core Equity Fund had the most significant negative impact on relative returns, as both funds underperformed their benchmarks in 2018.

It is the policy of the Fund to maintain currency hedges at all times in order to neutralize exchange-rate movements between the U.S. dollar and the Canadian dollar. This policy had a negative impact on the Fund in 2018.

Portfolio turnover can be high for the Fund, as the portfolio manager attempts to generate better returns through active security and sector selection.

Recent Developments

While the portfolio manager's base case is for stocks to rise modestly over the next year, there are several scenarios that could lead to different outcomes. A policy mistake by the U.S. Federal Reserve (the "Fed") – raising interest rates too fast, for example – or an escalation of protectionist moves by the Trump administration, which could increase the costs of goods, are the most likely causes of a downturn, given the potential for both to stamp out the expansion. In the upside scenario, the expansion would remain intact through 2021, perhaps because the Fed soon pauses its plan to hike rates or the Trump administration reaches a trade agreement with China.

<sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Effective June 30, 2016, the management fees were changed in respect of Series A, Advisor Series, Series D and Series F units of the Fund. If the changes to the management fees would have been in effect throughout 2016, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series A – 1.93%, Advisor Series – 1.92%, Series D – 1.05% and Series F – 0.76%.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. ## MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide long-term capital growth by investing primarily in equity securities of U.S. companies using a quantitative investment approach.

The Fund is managed using a quantitative investment model designed to select individual stocks while controlling portfolio-level risk. This involves building a portfolio that maximizes exposure to factors associated with outperformance, while controlling for exposure to risk factors. The portfolio manager will diversify across industries within the U.S. equity market.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value fell to $3.5 billion as of December 31, 2018, from $3.6 billion at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to net redemptions, partially offset by investment returns.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series O units gained 2.7%, which underperformed the 3.8% rise in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

A decade-long period of investor-friendly monetary stimulus and ultralow interest rates appeared to start receding in 2018, leading to concern about the outlook for earnings and borrowing. The U.S. Federal Reserve, in particular, was clear about its plan to raise interest rates steadily and it followed through, fearful that the relatively strong U.S. economy would experience uncomfortably high inflation if rates did not increase.

Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines, with emerging markets underperforming developed markets. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the "EU"), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU.

Holding back the Fund's returns during the year were positions in the Financials sector. Holdings in Ameriprise Financial and Citigroup hurt performance over the period. Positions in the Consumer Staples sector also had a negative impact on performance. A position in Walmart had a negative impact on relative returns for the year.

In the Industrials sector, the Fund's position in Boeing added significantly to returns. The Information Technology sector also performed well during the year, with big contributions from Intuit and Mastercard.

Portfolio turnover was high for the Fund given the portfolio manager's model-driven investment process.

Recent Developments

A slowdown in the global economic expansion is among the variables that will influence equity and other financial markets in 2019. Growth has been kept afloat by the U.S. in recent quarters, but stock declines have many investors questioning whether a global recession might soon unfold.

Related-Party Transactions

Manager, Trustee and Portfolio Manager

RBC GAM is an indirect, wholly owned subsidiary of Royal Bank of Canada ("Royal Bank") and is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn fees and spreads in connection with various services provided to, or transactions with, the Fund, such as banking, brokerage, securities lending, foreign exchange and derivatives transactions. RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn a foreign exchange spread when unitholders switch between series of funds denominated in different currencies. Custodian

RBC IS is the custodian and holds the assets of the Fund. RBC IS earns a fee as the custodian, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

Brokers and Dealers

The applicable standing instructions require that Related-Party Trading Activities and Inter-Fund Trading be conducted in accordance with RBC GAM policy and that RBC GAM advise the Independent Review Committee of a material breach of any standing instruction. RBC GAM policy requires that an investment decision in respect of Related-Party Trading Activities (i) is made free from any influence of Royal Bank or its associates or affiliates and without taking into account any consideration relevant to Royal Bank or its affiliates or associates, (ii) represents the business judgment of the portfolio manager, uninfluenced by considerations other than the best interests of the Fund, (iii) is in compliance with RBC GAM policies and procedures, and (iv) achieves a fair and reasonable result for the Fund. <sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|          | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|          |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series F | 0.60%           | —                     | 100%   |

Series O – no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide long-term capital growth by investing primarily in equity securities of U.S. companies using a quantitative approach. The Fund seeks to achieve a reduced level of volatility of returns compared with the broader U.S. equity market.

The Fund is managed using a quantitative investment model designed to select individual stocks while controlling portfolio-level risk. This involves building a portfolio that maximizes exposure to factors associated with outperformance, while controlling for exposure to risk factors. The portfolio manager will diversify across industries within the U.S. equity market.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value rose to $1.8 billion as of December 31, 2018, from $1.7 billion at the end of 2017. The increase was due to investment returns, partially offset by net redemptions.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units gained 8.4%, which outperformed the 3.2% rise in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

A decade-long period of investor-friendly monetary stimulus and ultralow interest rates appeared to start receding in 2018, leading to concern about the outlook for earnings and borrowing. The U.S. Federal Reserve, in particular, was clear about its plan to raise interest rates steadily and it followed through, fearful that the relatively strong U.S. economy would experience uncomfortably high inflation if rates did not increase.

Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines, with emerging markets underperforming developed markets. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the "EU"), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU.

A holding in Walmart hurt performance during the period. Other positions in the Consumer Staples sector also had a negative impact on performance. A position in Colgate-Palmolive had a negative impact on relative returns for the year.

In the Information Technology sector, the Fund's position in Intuit added significantly to returns. The Health Care sector also performed well during the year, with big contributions from Pfizer and UnitedHealth.

Recent Developments

A slowdown in the global economic expansion is among the variables that will influence equity and other financial markets in 2019. Growth has been kept afloat by the U.S. in recent quarters, but stock declines have many investors questioning whether a global recession might soon unfold.

<sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Effective June 30, 2016, the management fees were changed in respect of Series A, Advisor Series, Series T5, Series D, Series F and Series FT5 units of the Fund. If the changes to the management fees would have been in effect throughout 2016, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series A – 1.87%, Advisor Series – 1.87%, Series T5 – 1.92%, Series D – 1.03%, Series F – 0.77% and Series FT5 – 0.79%.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide long-term capital appreciation by investing primarily in equity securities of U.S. companies using a quantitative approach while minimizing the exposure to currency fluctuations between the U.S. and Canadian dollars. The Fund may also invest in mutual funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate. The Fund seeks to achieve a reduced level of volatility of returns compared with the broader U.S. equity market.

The Fund is managed using a quantitative investment model designed to select individual stocks while controlling portfolio-level risk. This involves building a portfolio that maximizes exposure to factors associated with outperformance, while controlling for exposure to risk factors. The portfolio manager diversifies across industries within the U.S. equity market. The Fund uses currency hedges to minimize the impact of fluctuations in the U.S. dollar versus the Canadian dollar.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value rose to $41 million as of December 31, 2018, from $27 million at the end of 2017. The increase was due to net inflows, partially offset by investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 1.3%, which outperformed the 6.3% decline in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

A decade-long period of investor-friendly monetary stimulus and ultralow interest rates appeared to start receding in 2018, leading to concern about the outlook for earnings and borrowing. The U.S. Federal Reserve, in particular, was clear about its plan to raise interest rates steadily and it followed through, fearful that the relatively strong U.S. economy would experience uncomfortably high inflation if rates did not increase.

Escalating trade conflicts, especially between the U.S. and China, and geopolitical uncertainty helped trigger global stock-market declines, with emerging markets underperforming developed markets. In Europe, U.K. politicians failed to agree on terms by which the U.K. would leave the European Union (the "EU"), while in Italy the formation of a coalition government committed to higher spending led to bond- and equity-market volatility, as well as friction with the EU.

A holding in Walmart hurt performance during the period. Other positions in the Consumer Staples sector also had a negative impact on performance. A position in Colgate-Palmolive had a negative impact on relative returns for the year.

In the Information Technology sector, the Fund's position in Intuit added significantly to returns. The Health Care sector also performed well during the year, with big contributions from Pfizer and UnitedHealth.

It is the policy of the Fund to maintain currency hedges in order to neutralize exchange-rate movements between the U.S. dollar and the Canadian dollar. Given this approach, unitholders did not benefit from the U.S. dollar's rise against the Canadian dollar during the period.

Recent Developments

A slowdown in the global economic expansion is among the variables that will influence equity and other financial markets in 2019. Growth has been kept afloat by the U.S. in recent quarters, but stock declines have many investors questioning whether a global recession might soon unfold.

<sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

<sup>4</sup> From May 4, 2016.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                 | Distribution          | Other* |

| Advisor Series | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |
| Series T5      | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |

Series O – no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

Annual Compound Returns (%)

The new benchmark (the "New benchmark") is the S&P Composite 1500 Total Return Index (hedged to CAD).

The old benchmark (the "Old benchmark") is the S&P 500 Total Return Index (hedged to CAD).

The change in benchmark better reflects the composition of the Fund.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund seeks to provide long-term capital growth by investing primarily in equity securities of U.S. companies that are attractively valued relative to their peers, their own history and the broader stock market while offering long-term opportunities for growth.

To achieve the Fund's objectives, the portfolio manager applies a bottom-up stock-selection process to identify quality companies that are undervalued based on criteria such as assets, earnings and cash flow. The portfolio manager reviews economic, industry and company-specific information to assess a company's prospects and monitors companies to ensure that the best relative values are identified.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value rose to $48 million as of December 31, 2018, from $47 million at the end of 2017. The increase was due to net inflows, partially offset by investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units lost 1.0%, which underperformed the 3.8% rise in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

U.S. stocks fell overall in 2018 due to a significant pullback in the fourth quarter of the year. From April to September, U.S. stocks enjoyed a stretch of strong returns driven primarily by earnings growth. However, volatility emerged in October amid concern that rising interest rates would generate headwinds for economic and earnings growth. The recent market pullback has arguably priced in most apparent challenges, in the view of the portfolio manager, as reduced stock-market valuations mean that future returns will not be entirely reliant on earnings growth.

In 2018, the Consumer Discretionary sector was the main source of underperformance for the Fund. The absence of Amazon from the portfolio had a significant negative impact on returns, given that investors' extremely high growth expectations for the company made it unsuitable for inclusion in the Fund. An overweight position in Mohawk Industries also held back performance, as the manufacturer of flooring products, including carpets and ceramic tile, was exposed to a slower housing market and rising costs for the raw materials used to make its products.

Health Care was a positive sector for the Fund, specifically due to overweight positions in Pfizer, Eli Lilly, UnitedHealth Group and Edwards Lifesciences.

Recent Developments

While the portfolio manager's base case is for stocks to rise modestly over the next year, there are several scenarios that could lead to different outcomes. A policy mistake by the U.S. Federal Reserve (the "Fed") – raising interest rates too fast, for example – or an escalation of protectionist moves by the Trump administration, which could increase the costs of goods, are the most likely causes of a downturn, given the potential for both to stamp out the expansion, in the view of the portfolio manager. In the upside scenario, the expansion would remain intact through 2021, perhaps because the Fed soon pauses its plan to hike rates or the Trump administration reaches a trade agreement with China.

Related-Party Transactions

Manager, Trustee and Portfolio Manager

RBC GAM is an indirect, wholly owned subsidiary of Royal Bank of Canada ("Royal Bank") and is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. RBC GAM is responsible for the Fund's day-to-day operations, holds title to the Fund's property on behalf of its unitholders, provides investment advice and portfolio management services to the Fund and appoints distributors for the Fund. RBC GAM is paid a management fee by the Fund as compensation for its services. The Fund pays a fixed administration fee to RBC GAM, which, in turn, pays certain operating expenses of the Fund. Both the management fee and fixed administration fee are calculated and accrued daily as a percentage of the net asset value of each series of units of the Fund. RBC GAM, as trustee, earns a fee, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn fees and spreads in connection with various services provided to, or transactions with, the Fund, such as banking, brokerage, securities lending, foreign exchange and derivatives transactions. RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn a foreign exchange spread when unitholders switch between series of funds denominated in different currencies. The Fund also maintains bank accounts and overdraft provisions with Royal Bank for which Royal Bank may earn a fee. Affiliates of RBC GAM that provide services to the Fund in the course of their normal businesses are discussed below.

Distributors

RBC GAM, Royal Mutual Funds Inc., RBC Direct Investing Inc., RBC Dominion Securities Inc. and Phillips, Hager & North Investment Funds Ltd. are principal distributors of, or may distribute certain series of units of, the Fund. Dealers may receive an ongoing commission based on the total value of their clients' investment in certain series of units of the Fund.

Registrars

RBC GAM, RBC Investor Services Trust ("RBC IS") or Royal Bank (or a combination thereof) are the registrars of the Fund and keep records of who owns units of the Fund. The registrars earn a fee, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

Custodian

RBC IS is the custodian and holds the assets of the Fund. RBC IS earns a fee as the custodian, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

Securities Lending Agent

To the extent the Fund may engage in securities lending transactions, RBC IS may act as the Fund's securities lending agent. Any revenue earned on such securities lending is split between the Fund and the securities lending agent.

Brokers and Dealers

The Fund has established standard brokerage and dealing agreements at market rates with related parties. These related-party commissions were $2,000 (2017 – $1,000) or 18% (2017 – 8%) of the total transaction costs paid for this Fund.

Other Related-Party Transactions

Pursuant to applicable securities legislation, the Fund relied on the standing instructions from the Independent Review Committee with respect to one or more of the following transactions:

Related-Party Trading Activities

- (a) trades in securities of Royal Bank;

Inter-Fund Trading

- (d) purchases or sales of securities of an issuer from or to another investment fund or managed account managed by RBC GAM.

The applicable standing instructions require that Related-Party Trading Activities and Inter-Fund Trading be conducted in accordance with RBC GAM policy and that RBC GAM advise the Independent Review Committee of a material breach of any standing instruction. RBC GAM policy requires that an investment decision in respect of Related-Party Trading Activities (i) is made free from any influence of Royal Bank or its associates or affiliates and without taking into account any consideration relevant to Royal Bank or its affiliates or associates, (ii) represents the business judgment of the portfolio manager, uninfluenced by considerations other than the best interests of the Fund, (iii) is in compliance with RBC GAM policies and procedures, and (iv) achieves a fair and reasonable result for the Fund. <sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Effective June 30, 2016, the management fees were changed in respect of Series A, Advisor Series, Series D and Series F units of the Fund. If the changes to the management fees would have been in effect throughout 2016, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series A – 1.88%, Advisor Series – 1.86%, Series D – 1.04% and Series F – 0.79%.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|                | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|                |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series A       | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |
| Advisor Series | 1.60%           | 63%                   | 37%    |
| Series D       | 0.85%           | 29%                   | 71%    |
| Series F       | 0.60%           | —                     | 100%   |

Series O – no management fees are paid by the Fund with respect to Series O units. Series O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to RBC GAM for investment-counselling services.

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund currently seeks to provide long-term capital growth by tracking the performance of the FTSE USA Index and investing primarily in equity securities in substantially the same proportion as the index, either directly or indirectly through investment in other mutual funds managed by RBC GAM or an affiliate of RBC GAM. The Fund's securities are purchased in U.S. dollars. As a result, the Fund's return consists of a combination of the U.S. market return and the movement of the U.S. dollar relative to the Canadian currency.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value rose to $875 million as of December 31, 2018, from $801 million at the end of 2017. The increase was due to a combination of net inflows and investment returns.

Over the past year, the Fund's Series A units gained 2.7%, which underperformed the 4.1% rise in the benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

The best-performing sectors by contribution to returns were Information Technology, Consumer Discretionary and Health Care. The Energy, Financials and Industrials sectors ranked last.

Recent Developments

RBC GAM has called and will hold a special meeting of the unitholders of the Fund on March 22, 2019. Subject to unitholder approval, the investment objective of the Fund will change to permit the Fund to invest in equity securities, in substantially the same proportion as its benchmark index, either directly or indirectly through investment in other mutual funds. In addition, the benchmark index will be changed to the S&P 500 Total Return Index (CAD) and the sub-advisor of the Fund will change to BlackRock Asset Management Canada Limited. If the change in investment objective is approved, all changes are expected to be effective on or about April 5, 2019.

Related-Party Transactions

Manager, Trustee and Portfolio Manager

RBC GAM is an indirect, wholly owned subsidiary of Royal Bank of Canada ("Royal Bank") and is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. RBC GAM is responsible for the Fund's day-to-day operations, holds title to the Fund's property on behalf of its unitholders, provides investment advice and portfolio management services to the Fund and appoints distributors for the Fund. RBC GAM is paid a management fee by the Fund as compensation for its services. The Fund pays a fixed administration fee to RBC GAM, which, in turn, pays certain operating expenses of the Fund. Both the management fee and fixed administration fee are calculated and accrued daily as a percentage of the net asset value of each series of units of the Fund. RBC GAM, as trustee, earns a fee, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn fees and spreads in connection with various services provided to, or transactions with, the Fund, such as banking, brokerage, securities lending, foreign exchange and derivatives transactions. RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn a foreign exchange spread when unitholders switch between series of funds denominated in different currencies. The Fund also maintains bank accounts and overdraft provisions with Royal Bank for which Royal Bank may earn a fee. Affiliates of RBC GAM that provide services to the Fund in the course of their normal businesses are discussed below.

Distributors

RBC GAM, Royal Mutual Funds Inc., RBC Direct Investing Inc., RBC Dominion Securities Inc. and Phillips, Hager & North Investment Funds Ltd. are principal distributors of, or may distribute certain series of units of, the Fund. Dealers may receive an ongoing commission based on the total value of their clients' investment in certain series of units of the Fund.

Registrars

RBC GAM, RBC Investor Services Trust ("RBC IS") or Royal Bank (or a combination thereof) are the registrars of the Fund and keep records of who owns units of the Fund. The registrars earn a fee, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

Custodian

RBC IS is the custodian and holds the assets of the Fund. RBC IS earns a fee as the custodian, which is paid by the manager from the fixed administration fee paid by the Fund.

Securities Lending Agent

To the extent the Fund may engage in securities lending transactions, RBC IS may act as the Fund's securities lending agent. Any revenue earned on such securities lending is split between the Fund and the securities lending agent.

Other Related-Party Transactions

Pursuant to applicable securities legislation, the Fund relied on the standing instructions from the Independent Review Committee with respect to one or more of the following transactions:

Related-Party Trading Activities

- (a) trades in securities of Royal Bank;

Inter-Fund Trading

The applicable standing instructions require that Related-Party Trading Activities and Inter-Fund Trading be conducted in accordance with RBC GAM policy and that RBC GAM advise the Independent Review Committee of a material breach of any standing instruction. RBC GAM policy requires that an investment decision in respect of Related-Party Trading Activities (i) is made free from any influence of Royal Bank or its associates or affiliates and without taking into account any consideration relevant to Royal Bank or its affiliates or associates, (ii) represents the business judgment of the portfolio manager, uninfluenced by considerations other than the best interests of the Fund, (iii) is in compliance with RBC GAM policies and procedures, and (iv) achieves a fair and reasonable result for the Fund. RBC GAM policy requires that an investment decision in respect of Inter-Fund Trading is in the best interests of each Fund.

<sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Effective June 30, 2017, the management fees were changed in respect of Series F units of the Fund and the administration fees were changed in respect of Series A units of the Fund. If the changes to the management fees and administration fees would have been in effect throughout 2017, the adjusted MER for each series of the Fund would be: Series A – 0.66% and Series F – 0.21%.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|          | Management Fees | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------|-----------------|-----------------------|--------|
|          |                 | Distribution          | Other* |
| Series A | 0.50%           | 20%                   | 80%    |
| Series F | 0.09%           | —                     | 100%   |

* Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)

The bar chart indicates the Fund's performance for each of the years shown, and illustrates how the Fund's performance has changed from year to year. The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year.

Annual Compound Returns (%)

The table shows the annual compound returns for each series of the Fund and for each of the periods indicated ended on December 31, 2018, compared with the following benchmark:

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund currently seeks to provide long-term capital growth by tracking the performance of the FTSE USA Hedged 100% to CAD Index and investing primarily in units of the RBC U.S. Equity Index ETF (the “underlying fund”). The Fund may also use derivatives to hedge against the fluctuations in the value of the U.S. dollar relative to the Canadian dollar.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund’s overall level of risk during the reporting period. The risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund’s net asset value fell to $335 million as of December 31, 2018, from $377 million at the end of 2017. The decrease was due to a combination of net redemptions and investment losses.

Over the past year, the Fund’s Series A units lost 6.1%, which underperformed the 5.9% decline in the benchmark. The Fund’s return is after the deduction of fees and expenses, while benchmark and broad-based index returns do not include any costs of investing. See the Financial Highlights section for the management expense ratios and the Past Performance section for the returns of any other series, which may vary because of differences in management fees and expenses.

U.S. stocks fell overall in 2018 due to a significant pullback in the fourth quarter of the year. From April to September, U.S. stocks enjoyed a stretch of strong returns driven primarily by earnings growth. However, volatility emerged in October amid concern that rising interest rates would generate headwinds for economic and earnings growth. The recent market pullback has arguably priced in most apparent challenges, in the view of the portfolio manager, as reduced stock-market valuations mean that future returns will not be entirely reliant on earnings growth.

The best-performing sectors by contribution to returns were Information Technology, Consumer Discretionary and Health Care. The Energy, Financials and Industrials sectors ranked last in terms of performance.

It is the policy of the Fund to maintain currency hedges at all times in order to neutralize exchange-rate movements between the U.S. dollar and the Canadian dollar. This policy was negative for performance in 2018 as unitholders did not benefit from the rise in the U.S. dollar against the Canadian dollar.

Recent Developments

While the portfolio manager’s base case is for stocks to rise modestly over the next year, there are several scenarios that could lead to different outcomes. A policy mistake by the U.S. Federal Reserve (the “Fed”) – raising interest rates too fast, for example – or an escalation of protectionist moves by the Trump administration, which could increase the costs of goods, are the most likely causes of a downturn, given the potential for both to stamp out the expansion, in the view of the portfolio manager. In the upside scenario, the expansion would remain intact through 2021, perhaps because the Fed soon pauses its plan to hike rates or the Trump administration reaches a trade agreement with China.

RBC GAM has called and will hold a special meeting of the unitholders of the Fund on March 22, 2019. Subject to unitholder approval, the investment objective of the Fund will change to permit the Fund to invest in equity securities, in substantially the same proportion as its benchmark index, either directly or indirectly through investment in other mutual funds. The Fund will continue to use derivatives to hedge against the fluctuations in the value of the U.S. dollar relative to the Canadian dollar. In addition, the benchmark index will be changed to the S&P 500 Total Return Index (hedged to CAD). If the change in investment objective is approved, all changes are expected to be effective on or about April 5, 2019.

RBC GAM or its affiliates may earn fees and spreads in connection with various services provided to, or transactions with, the Fund, such as banking, brokerage, securities lending, foreign exchange and derivatives transactions. The applicable standing instructions require that Related-Party Trading Activities and Inter-Fund Trading be conducted in accordance with RBC GAM policy and that RBC GAM advise the Independent Review Committee of a material breach of any standing instruction. RBC GAM policy requires that an investment decision in respect of Related-Party Trading Activities (i) is made free from any influence of Royal Bank or its associates or affiliates and without taking into account any consideration relevant to Royal Bank or its affiliates or associates, (ii) represents the business judgment of the portfolio manager, uninfluenced by considerations other than the best interests of the Fund, (iii) is in compliance with RBC GAM policies and procedures, and (iv) achieves a fair and reasonable result for the Fund. <sup>1</sup> The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on expenses for the stated period, excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period. RBC GAM may, at its discretion and without notice to unitholders, waive or absorb certain operating expenses. MER includes the waiver or absorption by RBC GAM of certain operating expenses, while the MER before absorption shows the MER prior to operating expenses being waived or absorbed by RBC GAM.

Management Fees

RBC GAM is the manager, trustee and portfolio manager of the Fund. Management fees of each series of the Fund are calculated at the annual percentages, before GST/HST, of the daily net asset value of each series of the Fund. The breakdown of the services received in consideration of the management fees for each series, as a percentage of the management fees, is as follows:

|          | Management Fees* | Breakdown of Services |        |
|----------|------------------|-----------------------|--------|
|          |                  | Distribution          | Other† |
| Series A | 0.41%            | 20%                   | 80%    |
| Series F | 0.00%            | —                     | 100%   |

* Effective October 3, 2017, the management fees for Series A units were waived to 0.41% from 0.50%; and for Series F units were waived to 0.00% from 0.09% to account for the management fee charged by the underlying fund. Effective June 30, 2017, the management fees for Series F units were reduced to 0.09% from 0.40%.

† Includes all costs related to management, trustee, investment advisory services, general administration and profit.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The performance information shown assumes that all distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the Fund and would be lower if distributions were not reinvested. The performance information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution, optional charges or income taxes payable that would have reduced returns or performance. Past performance does not necessarily indicate how the Fund may perform in the future. A fund with more than 10 years of performance history is only permitted to disclose the past 10 years.

Year-by-Year Returns (%)
